ON CAMPAIGN TRAIL

Vice President Hubert Humphrey chats with farmer James Craven and his son Jimmie on a farm in Illinois. In his whirlwind campaign tour the Democratic hopeful has expressed confidence that he will be able to catch up in his race with Republican Richard M. Nixon by mid-October.

HHH Promises to Speak Out Even If Conflicting with LBJ

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Hubert H. Humphrey urged a crowd of thousands Sunday to give the horse laugh to persistent hecklers in the background. He also promised to speak out even if he finds himself in a conflict with President Johnson.

Humphrey campaigned in Columbus and Cleveland with the main event the traditional Democratic steer roast. Shortly before Humphrey was scheduled to speak here a Cleveland man was knifed in the park near the speakers platform and a policeman was reported to have been hit in what was portrayed as a Negro-white clash.

William McWilliams, 41, an attorney for the federal aviation administration was reported in serious condition at Euclid Glenview hospital with a stab wound in the back received in the fight at a Democratic picnic.

McWilliams, who is white, reportedly went to the aid of a policeman who was in a fight with two Negroes. A Negro was taken into custody after the knifing.

Humphrey was reported at the time to be in a trailer waiting his turn to speak.

In his speech to a crowd of several thousand, Humphrey termed described the Republican Eisenhower-Nixon administration as "eight years of fitful sleep—the great GOP slumber."

Humphrey did not refer to Eisenhower directly but told the crowd, "You can tell your grandchildren that you were there when America awoke from eight years of fitful sleep."

As Humphrey spoke a crowd of demonstrators began to chant, "Dump the Hump" and "Peace, Now."

Humphrey declared, "Did you ever hear such nonsense?" Then said to the crowd, "Let's laugh at them."

At that, he and some members of the crowd gave the hecklers the horse laugh.

Humphrey then said everyone has a way of having fun, "But some people just make damn fools of themselves."

After his speech Humphrey moved through the big steer roast crowd, obviously ignoring the earlier incident.

The security guard included mounted police.

Nixon Strategists Convinced They Have Winning Formula

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon and his Republican strategists are convinced they have a winning campaign formula: Take it easy, talk with caution and treat the rival candidates like "forgotten Americans."

The latter phrase is one Nixon uses in every speech to describe the crowds he sees. "You are the people who have been forgotten because you have been quiet," he tells them.

While he gives the crowds that treatment, Nixon gives his White House opponents what amounts to a forgotten candidate treatment.

There are a few gibes at Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, but George C. Wallace, the third party candidate, doesn't even get a nod from Nixon. The Republican nominee publicly ignores Wallace, arguing that even to recognize him with a word from the campaign stature would enhance his standing.

Privately, the Nixon camp is concerned about Wallace and the possibility that he may succeed in denying a majority election.

total vote to either of the major party candidates.

Robert Ellsworth, Nixon's national political director, contends that the Democrats—lagging far behind in the opinion polls—actually are trying to build up Wallace in hopes that the House of Representatives will make the presidential choice after an electoral college stalemate.

Confidence characterizes the Nixon entourage as the GOP nominee roams the nation at a generally leisurely pace, with one or two speeches a day and a heavy stress on television.

Nixon has cautioned his troops against overconfidence. No matter what the polls show, he said, he is going to campaign as if he trailed, is not going to make the mistakes that doomed the White House bid of Thomas E. Dewey 20 years ago.

Nixon is breaking little new ground on campaign issues, is sticking with a set speech, reciting it at every stop. He seems to be operating on the theory that guided his campaign for the GOP nomination: that only a major mistake during the campaign could cost him victory.

Marines Uncover Secret Enemy Supply Complex

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Marines on a massive sweep in the central demilitarized zone have uncovered a secret enemy supply complex with enough war material to supply a full North Vietnamese division, the U.S. Command reported Sunday.

Speakers said the hidden supplies included 800,000 rounds of rifle and machine gun ammunition; 16,000 rockets and mortar shells; more than six tons of explosives; 10,000 mines and grenades; 35 tons of rice; 23 rocket launchers; 700 rifles; 19 machine guns, and 412 helmets.

The DMZ sweep by 2,000 Leathernecks began last Tuesday. Marine spokesmen said it is the final phase of Operation Lancaster II, a search and destroy sweep in Quang Tri Province that began two weeks ago.

In the two weeks Marines have killed 415 enemy at a cost of 55 Americans killed and 300 wounded, spokesmen said. In addition they have found mass graves containing 170 enemy bodies, believed to be victims of B52 saturation bombing raids supporting the ground probe.

Marine commanders speculated the enemy felt reasonably secure in planting the large supply caches because allied forces have never before penetrated the central DMZ. The six-mile wide buffer zone which separates North and South Vietnam was once considered neutral.

U.S. intelligence reports indicate the enemy will follow his practice of the past two years and launch a big push into South Vietnam's northern provinces before the monsoon season reaches its peak in November. Three North Vietnamese divisions with 30,000 men are said to be poised along the DMZ for this offensive.

BULLETIN!
Russell and North Warren Volunteer Firemen were called to a barn blaze at the Ralph Wade residence just outside Russell at 1:15 a.m. Monday morning. Early reports indicate that the barn was a total loss. The amount of damage was not immediately known. Lander and Scandia fire departments were alerted for standby duty under the mutual aid program.

Russ Announce Recovery of Zond 5; Unmanned Space Ship Circled Moon

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union took a big step Sunday toward landing a man on the moon by recovering safely an unmanned space ship which had circled the moon.

An official announcement said the spacecraft, Zond 5, was taken aboard a Soviet rescue ship in the Indian Ocean Sunday after splashing down Saturday night.

Its successful return to earth at a point about 2,000 miles east of southern Africa came after it curved around the moon Wednesday, then sped back to earth at 25,000 miles an hour. Such a maneuver is considered essential for putting a man on the moon.

The announcement, made by Tass, said scientific instruments aboard Zond 5 were recovered, "bringing a vast body of scientific information."

It did not elaborate, but Western scientists assumed part of this could come from film believed to be aboard the craft. Pictures of the moon made from the film could be of far higher quality than previous pictures transmitted from space by U.S. or Soviet mooncraft.

Other valuable information from the flight, launched Sept. 15, included its test of flight control equipment and temperature and air-pressure controls which would be needed in later, manned flights. An earlier announcement, Friday, said that during the flight information on the working of this equipment was frequently radioed back to earth.

"They are now in a position to send a man around the moon and back to earth, without landing him on the moon," said a Western diplomat here who is an expert on the Soviet space program. "They might try one more unmanned shot, just to be sure, and then they could send up a man." The diplomat added that, because of seasonal factors, the best time to launch another such mission would be no later than early November. After that a favorable time would be next spring, he added.

While the diplomat said many problems still had to be solved before putting a man on the moon. For this reason, he added, it would be premature to say the Russians now are ahead of the United States in the moon race.

The diplomat said the recovery of Zond 5 in the Indian Ocean indicated the Russians are switching to sea recovery methods for their moon program. All previous recoveries have been on land, inside the Soviet Union.

Israel Announces Capture Of Long Sought Saboteur

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Keeping up a running battle with Arab neighbors as it prepared to usher in the Jewish New Year, Israel announced Sunday it has captured the long sought leader of a sabotage team that bombed Tel Aviv and Jerusalem.

An army announcement said the leader, identified as Abed el Rahim Jaber, was wounded in a fight with Israeli troops about 15 miles south of the Dead Sea near Neot Hakikar.

Jaber and his brother, Munir, both from the occupied West Bank town of Hebron, had led a strike force of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine.

The group carried out a series of bomb assaults in Jerusalem and Tel Aviv, including the bombing of a bus station here Sept. 4, which killed one person and wounded 59.

Border clashes continued to flare along the Jordan River frontier as Jews assembled for the celebration of Rosh Hashana, start of year 5729 on the Jewish calendar, commencing at sundown.

The latest shooting exchange was reported near the settlement of Geshor, south of the Sea of Galilee. The small arms duel lasted only a few minutes, however, and there were no Israeli casualties, an army announcement said.

To mark the holy event, soldiers guarding Israel's borders, from Mount Hebron to the Red Sea, blew the traditional shofar or ram's horn.

Israeli President Zalman Shazar and Prime Minister Levi Eshkol issued messages expressing hope for peace, but warning Israelis to remain vigilant.

In Amman, King Hussein of Jordan left on a tour of Arab capitals. Piloting his own plane, Hussein planned one-day stops in Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Libya for talks with Arab leaders before flying to London for a sinus operation.

Two Colombian Airliners Hijacked; Forced to Fly to Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A youth with a pistol, and a small, dark man holding a knife and a grenade moved into the cockpits of two Colombian Avianca airliners Sunday and forced them to fly to Cuba. The twin steal was unprecedented in a year of growing air piracy.

Authorities could not immediately determine if the hijackings were coincidence or part of a plot. The planes had taken off two hours and 11 minutes apart from Barranquilla, Colombia.

Officials of the airline in Bogota said 135 persons were aboard the two aircraft.

Cuban security officers reported a Boeing 727 jet landed safely with its 72 passengers and a crew of six in the provincial capital of Camaguey, 500 miles from Havana, at 1:23 p.m. EDT. The second plane, a DC4, landed at 4:21 p.m. EDT in Santiago de Cuba with 57 passengers and a crew of four.

The propeller craft's captain, Alfredo Crisman, told a reporter that a youth of 18 or 20 knocked on the door to the cockpit, entering holding a pistol, and spoke just once. He said: "Cuba."

Capt. Alfonso Lopez of the 727 jet said in a telephone interview that a man with a knife and grenade diverted his plane. No one on board was injured, he said. It took off for Colombia Sunday night.

Officials at the Swiss Embassy, which handles Colombian affairs here, reported that all aboard the DC4 apparently were safe, but that the plane would not depart for home until Monday.

Lopez recalled that the hijacker said he wanted to go because he was not in agreement with the Colombian government. The captain did not explain how the hijacker got into the pilot's cab.

The bizarre twin air piracy began when the first airliner, a Boeing 727, left Soledad airport at Barranquilla, Colombia's main port on the Caribbean.

The Boeing jet which took off at 10:30 a.m. was heading for Cartagena 15 minutes away when the hijack took place. It was to have continued on to Medellin and Cali. The big plane landed at Camaguey at 12:25 p.m. said a pilot for the Dutch KLM airlines who was in contact with the plane when it was diverted.

The second plane, a DC4, left Soledad at 12:41 P.M. for Malicao, a town on Guajira peninsula near the Venezuelan frontier. Its pilot, Alfredo Crisman radioed that it was heading for Santiago de Cuba.

The government demanded through the Swiss Embassy in Havana that the planes be returned at once.

Troops and Police Patrol Riot Area in Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Troops and police rode patrol Sunday in Mexico City's famed Plaza of the Three Cultures where a policeman was shot dead and dozens of persons were injured in a night of clashes between rioters and authorities.

Another contingent of soldiers kept control of the University of Mexico across insurgent Boulevard from the stadium where the 1968 Olympic Games open Oct. 12.

In the riot area, troops made no attempt to force their way into a preparatory school or into a government building project across the street from the Foreign Ministry building where a group of students had taken refuge.

Residents in a government employees housing complex became involved in the skirmish when the police tried to rout out the fleeing rioters.

Authorities said the policeman who died was shot by an army officer residing in one of the apartments after riot police fired tear gas into the building and tried to arrest the army man's mother.

Many of those treated by the Red Cross were government employees overcome by tear gas. Some residents of the building complex pelted police with bottles and boiling water.

It was impossible to determine how many persons were arrested in the latest clash.

Students have been on strike since July and have refused to take exams until the government gives in to their demands, including the firing of three police officials and disbanding of the riot police corps.

Man Who Refused Transfusion Dies

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A young man who authorities said refused a blood transfusion because of religious beliefs has died.

Gerald Wayne Baker, 23, of Pleasantville died Saturday night, after suffering leg injuries from a power chain saw he was using to cut firewood.

According to Crawford County Dep. Coroner C. M. Sonne, Baker, a Jehovah's Witness, said he refused blood and referred to Biblical teachings.

Baker and his wife moved to Crawford County from Elyria, Ohio about four months ago.

Dr. Lowe Installed as Head Of State Heart Association

Dr. Raymond E. Lowe, Warren, was installed as president of the Pennsylvania Heart Association Sunday morning during the 19th annual assembly meeting in Pittsburgh.

Other top posts were filled by Earl S. Heffner Jr., Bethlehem, who was elected to a second term as chairman of the board during the directors' meeting Sunday afternoon, and Dr. E. Wayne Martz, Pittsburgh, who was named president-elect to take office in 1969.

The election was the highlight of the association's two-day annual meeting, which included a delegate assembly, panel workshops and the state directors' meeting.

Dr. Lowe, an internist specializing in cardiology, is past president of the Warren County Medical Society and the Warren General Hospital staff. He just has completed a term as chairman of the board of the Allegheny Mountain Heart Association and has held seven major posts in the state association, including the vice presidency in 1967. He is a graduate of

Marlin Rockwell Workers Vote To Strike

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — One of the Jamestown area's largest industries may be on strike next month. Members of Local 338 of the United Auto Workers met Sunday afternoon at Machinists Hall and voted to strike both the Jamestown and Falconer plants of Marlin Rockwell Corp. if no agreement is reached prior to the expiration of the present contract on Oct. 12.

The vote in favor of the strike was 963 to 17. DYC General Manager Russell S. Kennerson said Sunday night he had no knowledge that the union membership was meeting to vote on the matter. "Such votes are quite normal," he said, "toward the end of a contract period." He said negotiations are continuing and that he is hopeful of wrapping up successful negotiations before the old contract expires.

Jamestown Library Slates Grand Opening for Sept. 26

JAMESTOWN — The grand opening of the James Prendergast Free Library's $500,000 addition has been scheduled for Thursday, September 26 at 8:00 p.m.

John M. Hightower, executive director of the New York State Council on the Arts, will be the principal speaker.

Highlighting the event will be the display of five huge Picasso tapestries, which have been loaned to the library from the art collection of Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

The evening's program will be open to the public, and will be followed by tours of the new facilities.

Arrangements and plans for the event have been made by various committees, headed by Mrs. Karl Sandmeyer, Chairman; Mr. Howard Chadwick; Mr. and Mrs. Randall Chadwick; Mrs. Myron Koplick; Mrs. Miles Lasser; Mrs. Louis Melisse; Mrs. Mary Paulson; and Mr. Gordon Taylor.

During the time Governor Rockefeller's tapestries are on loan to the library, its Art Gallery will remain open to the public during the regular library hours, 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. The only exceptions to these dates are, September 28, when the gallery will close at 6 p.m.; September 29, when the library will be open from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.; and October 5, when it will close at 3:00 p.m.

October 4 is the last day the tapestries will be on exhibit. The guest speaker, Mr. Hightower, strongly feels that the nation's most prominent cultural institutions are "clubs and warehouses for the wealthy", largely due to the fact that these institutions have had to rely on such people's patronage. Mr. Hightower feels it imperative that this attitude change.

In 1965, he was among the nation's leaders in the arts who testified at U.S. Senate subcommittee hearings, which later that year led to the passage of the National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities.

In addition to his duties with the New York State Council on the Arts, Mr. Hightower is an advisor to the New York State Education Department in Albany; and to the New York City Board of Education. He is a director of the MacDowell artists colony, and an honorary member of the Buffalo Fine Arts Academy.

chairman of the board of the Berks-Lehigh Valley chapter, which last year became the Heart Association of Mid-eastern Pennsylvania.

Dr. Martz is associate director of the Western Pennsylvania Regional Medical Program, a clinical assistant professor of medicine at the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine, and former director of medical education at St. Francis General Hospital, Pittsburgh. He is a past president of the Western Pennsylvania Heart Association and served this past year as chairman of the professional education committee of the Pennsylvania Heart Association, planning scientific programs for doctors and nurses. Dr. Martz is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the New York University College of Medicine.

In addition to the top three positions, the Pennsylvania Heart Association also announced election of six other officers, five executive committee members, six directors-at-large, a representative to the regional heart committee, and four chapter representatives to the state board of directors.

The three new vice presidents are: Dr. R. Douglas Collins, Berwick; Dr. M. Duane Mills, Harrisburg; and Dr. Perry C. Smith, Washington.

Dr. Frank D. Sills of East Stroudsburg, was chosen secretary to the board of directors and Henry B. Gilbert, Harrisburg, was re-elected treasurer. G. Vance Seidel of Harrisburg, will be assistant treasurer.

The new executive committee members are: William D. Coyalt, Bedford; Christian F. Peit Jr., Smithport; Dr. Donald B. Freedman, Harrisburg; John M. Gibson, Drumore; and Mrs. Howard J. Hugel of Lehighton.

The following persons will serve as State directors-at-large for 1968-71: Philip M. Alden, Swarthmore; W. Bennett Conner, Jr., Mechanicsburg; Dr. Frederick R. Franke, Pittsburgh; Dr. Warren J. McCandless, Franklin; William D. Morgan, Scranton; and Dr. Leonard J. Quetsch, Washington.

Alden also was elected to serve with Dr. Freedman as Pennsylvania representatives to the Upper Atlantic Regional Heart Committee.

The four new Chapter representatives to the State Board of Directors are: James E. Blough, Johnstown, representing the Pennsylvania Highlands Heart Association; John E. O'Connor, Kingston, the Northeastern Pennsylvania Heart Association; Ernest W. Traut, Erie, the Northwestern Pennsylvania chapter; and Dr. Harry F. Zinsner, Philadelphia, representing the Heart Association of Southeastern Pennsylvania.

NEWS FROM YOUNGVILLE

Order of the Eastern Star Entertains 300 Guests

Youngsville chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star entertained some 300 guests when a meeting of District 1—B of the Order was held at Youngsville high school on September 13. It was only the second time in the 32-year-history of the local chapter that they were hosts to the affair. Mrs. Joan Archbold, of Youngsville, District 1-B Deputy Grand Matron, was in charge of all the arrangements.

Many Pennsylvania state and district officers and out-of-state representatives were among the honored guests. For Pennsylvania, they included Worthy Grand Matron Miss A. Jean Gamble, of Alden, Pa.; Worthy Grand Patron, George D. W. Koenig of Harbor; Grand Officers Mary S. Johns, Mardella

R. Lort, and Mary K. Sauer; General Grand Chapter Committee member, Willis F. Davis of Erie; Past Grand Matrons Dorothea S. Robinson, Albion, and Clara L. Schmitt, Philadelphia; Past Grand Patron Frank Goodwin of Sharon; District Deputy Grand Matrons Doris Davis (District 1) and Charlotte Honchell (District 17); also Worthy Matrons Lola Freeman, Albion; Lois Simpson, Warren; Ruth Lashinsky, Girard; and Evelyn Swanson, Shawnee.

Grand Representatives of other Grand Jurisdictions were Louise Johns, Virginia, Mary Ann Kaiser, Missouri, Margaret Shellenberger, Illinois, Marjorie Fullerton, North Carolina and Evelyn Goodwin, Wisconsin.

Following a musical prelude by Mrs. Beverly Schnell of Youngsville, Mrs. Mary Henderson of Linesville called the session to order.

Miss Nancy Acker of Cambridge Springs extended the welcome, and the invocation was given by Mrs. Mildred Hutchinson of Union City. Mrs. Lorraine Brooks of Youngsville introduced officers of the district chapters attending. In addition to the host chapter they were from Conneautville, Corry, Union City, Titusville, Meadville, Linesville, Cambridge Springs and Waterford.

A team of Youngsville members presented the Emblems of the Order. Flag tributes were given by Worthy Patrons Clarence Parker of Titusville and William Page of Conneautville.

Business of the meeting included election of two Grand Committee members: Miss Nancy Acker for the Educational Scholarship and Estari Fund; and Mrs. Ella S. Repsher, Board of Directors of the Felicitas Home. The following were appointed Grand Committee members: Mesdames Betty Hasbrouck, Margaret Ridgeway, Helen Johnson, Phyllis Keckley, Dorothy Minier, Olive Davidson, and Mr. Daniel Marsh.

Floral decorations in the meeting room and at the banquet preceding the meeting were a highlight of the occasion. The color scheme for the banquet was orchid and white. The theme colors of the Worthy Grand Matron. Place favors of miniature topiary trees were repeated in the meeting room decorations, with large topiary arrangements of white and orchid colored chrysanthemums and ferns. Mrs. Joanne Oviatt was chairman of the decorating committee, and Mrs. Carolyn Green was chairman of the banquet committee.

94th Annual WCTU Meet Slated

The 94th annual convention of the Warren County Women's Christian Temperance Union will be held in the Youngsville First United Methodist Church next Thursday, September 26, starting at 9:30 a.m.

The State President of the W.C.T.U., Mrs. E. L. Mason, will address the afternoon session, at 1:30 p.m. Her theme will be "Action Ahead." Mrs. Harold Michael, Warren County W.C.T.U. president, will bring the morning session to order. The program will include business reports, election and installation of officers.

Participating area ministers will include the Revs. Lyston Knappenberger, George O. Pearce, Robert Williams and Spurgeon D. Withrow. Special music will be presented by Mrs. John McInturf, Mrs. Donald McKinney and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark.

Dishes and coffee will be provided for a thirteen luncheon noon. Luncheon committee members are Mrs. H. H. Husted, Mrs. M. Freeborough and Mrs. W. Jones. The convention is open to all who are interested.

Held on Charges Of Dispensing Dangerous Drugs

Heath D. Bourdon, 16 Water st., reportedly a doctor, was reported in the Warren County Jail in lieu of $500 bail Sunday on charges of dispensing dangerous drugs.

Bourdon and Peter Muczynski, 410 Laurel st., were arrested in March. Police Chief Michael Evan said, with pills or capsules containing amphetamine and amobarbital in their possession. Bourdon allegedly supplied the drugs to Muczynski for resale, district attorney Samuel F. Bonavita said.

Muczynski was tried and sentenced at the time of the incident but Bourdon was committed to Warren State Hospital before arraignment and prosecution was in abeyance until his release from the hospital. Bourdon gave a previous address of 5 Highland View rd., Claremont, N.H.

The drugs amphetamine and amobarbital are sometimes prescribed for weight control and various ailments, they are also taken in extra dosage for a euphoric effect. It is illegal to dispense them except on prescription.

200 Roman Catholics Walk Out During Sermon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two hundred Roman Catholics walked out of St. Matthew's Cathedral here Sunday as their archbishop, Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, began delivering a sermon urging obedience to Pope Paul VI's restrictions on birth control.

The walkout, which Catholic clergymen said was unprecedented in the Archdiocese of Washington and perhaps in the world, dramatized the chasm that has developed between Cardinal O'Boyle's interpretation of the Pope's encyclical, Humanae Vitae (of human life), and priests who interpret it differently.

Cardinal O'Boyle was only one of several Catholic clergymen who had to face walkouts. The pastoral letter that he read was read also in the 129 other churches of his archdiocese, which encompasses Washington and five southern Maryland counties.

Laymen and some priests walked out at several other churches, returning after the pastoral letter had been read.

Unofficial checks showed that at least 235 people at four other churches walked out during morning services.

Cardinal O'Boyle read the

Schweiker Raps Demo Leadership

HARRISBURG (AP) — U. S. Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, who is running against a veteran Democrat for the U. S. Senate, says Democratic national leadership has failed to move the nation's political system.

Remarks at a campaign appearance Saturday in Luzerne County, Schweiker told picnicers at Chase, Pa., that "there is something wrong with the system..."

"There is something wrong with the system when our leadership lets us slip into an unpopular war and are reluctant to talk about it in straight-forward terms," Schweiker said.

"There is something wrong with the system when a third party, which has absolutely no chance of winning, threatens to stalemate the presidential election and produce a constitutional crisis unlike anything this country has seen," he continued.

The defeat of Democrats like his opponent, incumbent U. S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, and victory for Republicans in November is essential, Schweiker said, "so that we can have national leaders with the wisdom and courage to adjust the American political process and make it work."

PUC Gets Taxi Bill For $2,964,037

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Peoples Cab Co. sent a bill to the Public Utility Commission for $2,964,037, claiming the company has lost that amount in revenue because of illegal jitneys in and around Pittsburgh.

Adolf Fram, president of the firm, said the bill was sent by registered mail on Friday. He said legal action will be taken if the bill is not paid. "As a result of the commission's failure to enforce the law, the financial position of Peoples Cab Co. has been so seriously impaired," Fram said, "that the company has been caused to lose between $310,000 and $563,000 per year between 1961 and 1968."

The commission had no immediate comment.

pastoral letter at the 10 and 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. masses at St. Matthew's.

At the first two, priests said, only 10 to 20 laymen walked out. His plan to appear at 12:30 had been given advance publicity, however, and the protesters had seated themselves in pews near the front. The huge and ornate cathedral, which can seat a maximum of 1,200 people, was full and standees were in the aisles.

Most of those who walked out returned after he finished the letter. The mass continued without pause.

The cardinal, television lights reflecting from his rimless glasses, did not falter as the dissenting Catholics began leaving. When he finished, the remaining congregation stood and applauded.

In an interview after the 12:30 mass, Cardinal O'Boyle said it was the first time in his 20 years as archbishop of Washington that anything like the walkout had happened.

The Pope's encyclical, issued in Rome July 29 forbade all forms of artificial birth control for Catholics except periodic abstinence from sexual relations, known as the rhythm method.

The encyclical, and Cardinal O'Boyle's interpretation of it, sparked an intrachurch dispute that has culminated with the cardinal's taking disciplinary action against 13 priests. Action against 31 others is pending.

Child Injured In Sunday Mishap

A three-year-old boy was injured Sunday when he was run over by a car in a driveway south of Tidoute. The child, Glenn Keith, 3, 1438 Stanley dr., Vernon, was listed in satisfactory condition at Warren General Hospital.

He was struck by a car operated by Raymond M. Craft, 41, RD 1, Tidoute, state police said. Craft was turning into his driveway, which runs on a steep decline from the highway, and was unable to see the boy sitting in the path of the car, they said.

William Sorvelli, 26, 14 S. South st., escaped serious injury Saturday when his motorcycle was struck by a car at the intersection of Jackson ave. and Prospect st. Police said a car driven by Frances Kay Carlson, 37, Box 315, Tiona, stopped for the sign at the intersection and then struck the eastbound motorcycle which was headed east on Jackson. Sorvelli was taken to Warren General Hospital for examination and released.

Two untended cars collided on Second ave. Saturday afternoon. Kathleen Ann Jensen, 209 Madison ave., parked her car at the curb, police said, and while she was gone the vehicle rolled backward striking a car owned by Roger F. McFarland, RD 1, Russell.

Successful Flight of Zond 5 Puts New Pressure on U.S.

(C) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — The Soviet Union's successful unmanned circumlunar flight may put new pressure on American space officials to approve plans for a more ambitious moon-circling mission by astronauts as early as December.

For some months Apollo project engineers at the manned spacecraft center in Houston have contended that such a flight is advisable to give astronauts and ground controllers experience in navigation and communications at lunar distances before attempting the actual moon-landing mission. They are understood to have drawn up a detailed blueprint for a flight in which three astronauts would orbit the moon at an altitude of about 70 miles. Instead of merely looping the moon, as Zond 5 did, they would circle it several times while taking pictures of landing sites and testing effects of lunar gravity on their ship.

Lt. Gen. Samuel B. Phillips, the Apollo program director conceded recently that Apollo 8, now scheduled for December, might attempt either to loop the moon or orbit it.

No decision could be made, he said, until after the Apollo 7 manned earth-orbital flight, set to begin Oct. 11. If major problems develop on this first manned test of the Apollo capsule, then Apollo 8 would serve as a rerun mission.

Because Apollo 8 will be the first manned flight launched by the Saturn 5 moon rocket, it would have more than enough power to reach lunar orbit. But in no event could Apollo 8 astronauts try a lunar landing, for the landing vehicle, the lunar module, will not be attached to their spacecraft on that flight. A rocket engine in the Apollo's rear equipment module would be fired to boost the craft out of lunar orbit and on its return to earth.

The flight of Zond 5 differed in several respects from what the American planners have in mind.

Zond 5, believed to have been a cosmonaut-rated vehicle, never got close enough to the moon to go into an orbit. Its closest approach was reported to be 1,210 miles.

Presumably this enabled the spacecraft to follow what engineers describe as a "free-return trajectory."

This requires aiming the spacecraft to fly close enough to the moon so as to use the lunar gravity to draw it around and then whip it back toward earth with increased velocity.

If Zond 5 had come within a hundred or so miles of the lunar surface, the gravity would have pulled it into orbit. If its aim had been too wide, Zond 5 would have flown right by and off into interplanetary space.

American Apollo engineers look upon the free-return trajectory as a safety feature in case moon-bound astronauts run into difficulties before reaching lunar orbit. By carefully aiming, the astronauts could let the moon's gravity thrust their crippled craft homeward.

Zond 5 is believed to have been the first fully operational spacecraft the Russians have returned to a water landing.

Public Assistance Climbs

(TWO HARRISBURG BUREAU) HARRISBURG — Total expenditures for public assistance in Warren County during the month of June increased from that of a year ago, climbing from $136,729 during the month in 1967 to $168,552 this year, a report from the State Department of Public Welfare revealed yesterday.

A breakdown shows that cash assistance for Warren County in June this year totaled $30,324, as compared with $30,166 in 1967, while venter payments for medical assistance in the county amounted to $133,645 in June this year as against $102,082 at the same time a year ago.

Under the heading "county administration," cost of administering the program in Warren County this year during June was $4383 as compared with $4481 a year ago.

Here is the way the cash—assistance grants in the county were disbursed during June this year (with the 1967 expenditure for the month in parentheses):

Old age assistance—$10,199 ($12,529); blind pensions — $5345, ($5331); aid to dependent children—$9286 ($7519); general assistance — $1771 ($773); aid to disabled — $3723 ($4014).

Tass Reports Finding Deserted American Yacht

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reported Sunday the finding of a demasted and deserted yacht apparently belonging to 75-year-old American navigator William Willis, who floated alone across the Pacific Ocean four years ago aboard a raft.

The Soviet news agency said crewmen of a Soviet fisheries ship discovered the yacht Friday in the Atlantic and found the passport of William Willis aboard. The passport, No. 22757, had been issued in New York City March 18, 1966, Tass said.

The Russians also found a medical card in Willis' name and other documents including a diary which indicated that he had set out on a round-the-world voyage alone May 3, 1968. Tass said the last entry in the diary was July 18.

Tass said the yacht was hoisted aboard the Soviet ship, after a futile search for Willis. Willis once told a reporter, "It must be born to me to see other places, other people, to seek solitude at times."

Willis fulfilled this desire in 1954 when at the age of 61 he set out from Peru and sailed alone to Pago Pago in Samoa aboard a frail balsam raft with only a cat and a parrot for company. A decade later, he completed the

Buffalonian Killed In Knife Battle

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A knife battle on Buffalo's east side Sunday has left one man dead and a 19-year-old soldier charged with manslaughter.

Police charged Pvt. Jerome Perkins, who is on leave from Fort Benning, Ga., with manslaughter in the death of John Williams, 39, of Buffalo.

Police said Perkins was visiting his father, Roosevelt Perkins, when Williams burst into the apartment and threatened to kill both of them. According to police, young Perkins armed himself with scissors, struggled with Williams and finally wrestled away Williams' knife and stabbed Williams.

The Ward Heeler

Modern sophistication has brought irascible changes to the American political system in just the past few decades. Since the Chicago convention there has been much said about the passing of big political bosses and the political machines that provided them with power. And in general, the average citizen is convinced that things are ever so much better now than they were in the good old days.

Yet there is no denying the fact that in the changes that have taken place John Q. Public has lost a tried and true friend - the local ward heeler. He may have been the contemptuous hanger-on in the minds of most, but he performed a function that is sadly missing in our modern version of political structure. Through him even the lowliest citizen could lodge a protest that would eventually reach the ears of those in city hall, or failing to do this, there was always an approaching election at which the ward heeler stood in peril of losing his coveted position.

For the ward heeler was responsible for turning out a favorable vote in his district for every candidate from constable to President of the United States. Satisfied voters were his stock in trade. And he would brave the wrath of his superiors to gain the approval of a protesting citizen, and an added vote at the next local, state or national election for the candidate he was backing.

But in almost every political subdivision of the country this friend of the common citizen is nothing more than a nostalgic memory any more. His passing has created a great void between the protesting citizen and the elected official whose malfunction in office can go on for as many as four years before the citizen can register his protest at the ballot box. Or through lack of patience, the citizen can carry his protest to the streets.

And while the modern politician has been quick to realize a void does exist, and mayors and governors have established branch offices in outlying sections of their domains to provide a more direct contact with the people, the results have never been quite the same. For these offices are manned by bureaucrats having no direct responsibility to the protesting citizen, and their loyalty leans toward the man who signs their checks.

In the course of history, America has progressed from the town meeting to the organized political machine and on to our present political structure - each step widening the "contact" gap between the average citizen and the official he has elected to represent him in the conduct of " - - that government of the people, by the people, and for the people - - "

So maybe the ward heeler of yesterday performed a service he was never fully credited for. At least it seems it was much harder for the militants of his day to find thousands of common citizens who would follow them into the streets to loot, riot, burn, and defy the forces of law and order than it is today. As someone once said, "Change cannot always be called Progress."

JAMES RESTON

What Do We Want?

The American voter is now faced with a very awkward and subtle problem. He has no hero to follow in the 1968 Presidential election, as the voters of 1952 and 1956 had in General Eisenhower. He has no clear ideological choice this year, as the voters had between President Johnson and Senator Goldwater in 1964. He has to choose between two comparatively unpopular candidates. He has to deal with the imponderables of their personalities and the tendencies of their policies. And this raises some fundamental questions.

How will the voters decide? What is the question? The trend at the moment is fairly clear. The voters want a change. They want to get rid of the devil they know. In their dissatisfaction with the past, they are clearly leading the nation toward what they suppose to be - probably quite inaccurately - a quite conservative Nixon Administration, and what may be more important, toward a conservative-to-reactionary Congress.

The fundamental question, however, is quite different. It is which of these two men can regain enough popular trust to deal effectively with the radical domestic and foreign problems of the nation? Who has the best chance of dealing with the protesting blacks and young in America, and the incalculable Communist leaders abroad? Who can organize the forces that can unify, protect, and govern the nation?

It is a very big question and honest men can easily differ about the answer. Mr. Nixon and Mr. Humphrey do not differ about goals. They both accept the two related principles that have guided American policy over the last generation, but while they agree on goals and principles, they disagree on means and priorities and end up quite far apart.

The two principles are, first, that the United States Government, in foreign affairs, should intervene politically and militarily, whenever it thinks that hostile powers, Communist or Fascist, threaten to tip the balance of power in the world against the non-Communist states. And second, that the United States Government, in domestic affairs, should also intervene to help the poor people and the poor regions of the country achieve a decent standard of living and a sense of security and hope.

Mr. Nixon and Mr. Humphrey agree on these goals and principles, but their personalities, priorities, and policies for dealing with them are quite different, and the difference between them could change the history of the next four years. This is what complicates the problem of voting next November, for the voter has to make a hard judgment between men and ideas.

Mr. Humphrey and Mr. Nixon, if one understands their records and personalities, really differ more than is generally realized. They agree that the Washington Government must intervene in favor of the poor people abroad and at home, and oppose the aggression of the Communists against the poorer and weaker nations, whenever possible, but they do not agree about what is primary and what is secondary, and this could make all the difference.

Humphrey looks like a Johnson man on Vietnam for the moment, and Nixon looks like a more attractive alternative to the present Vietnam policy, but actually, Nixon is probably much more of an interventionist abroad than Humphrey, and Humphrey is much more of an interventionist on behalf of the poor at home than Nixon.

This puts a harder and more difficult choice before the American voter. He has to decide his own priorities. He has to choose whether to put the home front or the foreign front ahead. He has to make his decision between Humphrey as he sees him as a man and Nixon in the same personal terms, for one or the other will exercise the remarkable powers of the Presidency after January of 1969.

Nixon obviously has the simpler argument: the party in power has failed; kick the rascals out; defy the demonstrators and the Communists; it's time for a change.

Humphrey has a much more difficult problem. He is stuck with President Johnson and the war, both unpopular. He is arguing for a compromise with the Communists in Moscow and the demonstrators at home, all of them also unpopular. He is looking to the future and proposing reconciliation with all the violent forces at home and abroad which are infuriating the American people.

No wonder, therefore, he is running behind. He is appealing to what might be while Mr. Nixon is condemning what is, and blaming it all on the Democrats. But in the end, policies and even tendencies may be more important than anything else. The case for sweeping the Democrats out of power is very strong indeed, but the voter has to think of the alternatives. Nixon and a conservative Congress would certainly be a change. Defying the Communists and the demonstrators, the young intellectuals and the militant Negroes, would undoubtedly appeal to a majority of the American voters in November, but what of the next November, and the one after?

JIM BISHOP Annual Medical Examination

The annual medical examination is over. It consisted of four days of tapping, probing, lighting, listening, tracings, swallowing, tests, X-rays, blood chemistry, lung lunges, paper work, and insulting questions. The doctor may collapse from all this, but I won't. Come to think of it, he didn't look too well.

Bishop

Years ago, the G.P. called me in, listening with a stethoscope, tightened a blood pressure cuff, tapped blood and assorted fluids, stuck a lighted cone at eyes, ears, nose, and throat, and said: "You're good for another year - I think. Don't quote me."

The examination has been refined and elaborated to such a degree that I found myself walking from one panelled room to another in a short time, I look funny dressed.

Once, I passed my dentist in the hall. He was in a shortle and I tried to show him a tooth, but he was yanked into another panelled room by a radiologist with glasses and dark hair, who flipped him on his side and said: "Take a deep breath. Take another. Stop breathing, sir." There was a sound like a bicycle coaster brake stripping a gear and the nurse had an excellent photograph of what is going on inside my dentist - something his nurses would like to study.

My wife, who holds all the insurance, said: "Go ahead. Take four days off. I'll make the appointments. All you have to do is to take your - ha, ha - body to his office on time." She couldn't lose. If it turned out good, I would continue to earn a little money for her and the kinder. If not, she would start humming the theme song of the Merry Widow.

There is no place in that wrinkled nightgown for a pack of cigarettes. I hid mine in the medical library and, when there were five minute waits between rounds, I ducked in, lit the butt, and blew the smoke between the pages of Gray's Anatomy, Vol. 1. No one suspected except the receptionist, who keeps the waiting room worriers off her neck with a sliding panel. She has two cigarettes lit in her ashtray, on her side of the sliding window, of course. "The doctor," she said, "told you not to smoke."

The free literature ranged from a copy of Esquire to a new book called The Traumatic Neurosis, by Dr. Lester Kellner. It is published by Lippincott and I read the chapter on "Malingering" and, whatever it is, I've got it, I switched to Esquire.

Every man believes that his doctor is the best. This is an essential before reporting to a physician. Mine, Dr. Louis Bennett, has the patience to explain, with pencilled diagrams, why liver function has to be related to kidney function, and what cigarettes will do to the pot-holes in a silly assortment of tubes called the bronchial. He has no appreciation of what those tubes have done to my cigarettes.

On the third day, I had the feeling that I was an automobile. I was being hoisted on the rack, and white-coated people were in the pit looking up, checking my transmission and shock absorbers. The windshield wipers worked, but the muffler was shot. A lovely nurse named Donna said I had nice veins. I was going to tell her that hers matched her eyes, but I thought that this could lead to things, so I contented myself with the neon smile, which turns on and off like a hamburger sign.

One of the medical ironies, for me, is that I feel great until I get inside the doctor's office. At once, I fall apart like an old Erector set. I'm sick, sick, sick. Dr. Bennett must listen to interminable complaints and descriptions of pains. He nods, arms folded, his mind on a movie he saw last night called "The Producers." He chuckles.

He and a nurse work with pen over a huge medical form. Tests are evaluated against other tests. The electrocardiogram is matched, like a section of the Rocky Mountains, against the EKG of last year. The peaks, valleys, and arroyos are in agreement. He has some tests which are not amusing, like "Bend over this table as though you were trying to find something on the floor on the opposite side." For a time, I was full of liquid chalk. When it was all over, he suggested that I cut my weight (5 ft. 7 1/2 inches, 174 pounds) and the cigarettes, which only amount to one a day all day long.

This is advice I could have received from my laughing wife - free. Everything else, he said, was within "tolerance."

He placed a hand on my shoulder and smiled. "You're good for another year - I think." I left him, a healthy wreck...

Tight Rein on Peace Team

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is reporting from Europe on the problems arising from the Czech crisis and also regarding the chances of peace in Vietnam. Today he reports from Paris.)

PARIS — You can write it down as certain that LBJ will never get a truce in Vietnam as long as he keeps his two negotiators in Paris so tightly on the leash.

Friendly Western diplomats, who have been following in great detail the attempts to get a truce in Vietnam, are amazed at the manner in which the President of the United States tries to dictate the Paris talks from 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue.

They note that he has two of the most experienced diplomats from the American stable of diplomacy representing him in Paris. Ambassador Averell Harriman has served in the Cabinet, as ambassador to Moscow, ambassador to London, as Deputy Under Secretary of State and as ambassador for the Marshall Plan in Europe. He has conducted some of the most skilled and delicate negotiations in recent years, including the settlement of the trouble in Laos and the Test Ban Treaty with Russia.

Cyrus Vance, former Under Secretary of Defense, is also one of Johnson's most trusted negotiators. He was sent as a troubleshooter to Cyprus when that controversial island appeared on the verge of exploding into a Mediterranean war. He was sent to Detroit during the Negro riots of 1967. He was dispatched to the Far East when North Korea seized the USS Pueblo.

Both these men know their diplomatic onions probably far better than the President. Yet they have been required to clear everything with him.

Sometimes, furthermore, they have almost received the impression that President Johnson would rather see Nixon elected in November than Vice President Humphrey. "Spider" Vance got something of a jolt regarding this when he received a telephone call in August from the President asking him to come to the LBJ ranch. Vance was about to take off for Paris, but went to Texas instead.

There he found, somewhat to his surprise, former Vice President Nixon lunching with LBJ. Vance was asked to give Nixon a briefing on the truce talks. It surprised him, as it did others around the White House, that Johnson would invite Nixon to lunch only two days after his nomination.

The public doesn't know it, but twice during the last three months the truce talks have been on the verge of success. Here is the inside story of what happened:

1. Last June Philip Noel-Baker, a British Quaker and long-time member of Parliament who had been to Hanoi, worked out a plan with the North Vietnamese and the American negotiators in Paris to get an agreement the minute the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam. The formula was for the United States to move first, with an agreement that North Vietnam would move immediately thereafter.

But suddenly there was publicity in Washington. Someone leaked.

At this point the North Vietnamese blew up. Part of the agreement was that there were to be no leaks. American diplomats in Paris explained that they were under requirement to report these moves to the President and that they were not responsible for the leak. There was some suspicion that the leak from the White House was deliberate on the part of those around LBJ who don't really want peace. But there was no evidence.

At any rate, the damage was done. This particular peace overture was exploded.

2. Toward the end of last July negotiators also were on the verge of agreement. The North Vietnamese had curtailed their ground operations. There was relative quiet in South Vietnam. It was proposed that this be taken as evidence of "responsible reciprocity" and that the United States suspend all bombing.

But at this point President Johnson flew to Hawaii, where he met President Thieu of South Vietnam. He issued a vigorous statement against any concessions. Once again the precariously negotiated peace proposals went up in smoke.

American diplomats in Paris are still optimistic - but only if the President will take his hands off the reins and give them a chance. Some of them are reminded of the manner in which LBJ operates his Texas ranch. The President gets a great kick out of running things himself.

On occasion he has been known to telephone over his short wave car radio to the ranch manager somewhat as follows: "The fence is down over here in the south pasture. Get Sam and Joe and tell them to take the white pickup truck and come over here. Don't use the station wagon. It's over in the north pasture. And don't bother Jake. He's on another job with those whiteface over in the feed lot. Pick up that 12-pound sledge and don't forget to bring a roll of barbed wire, a couple of fence posts and a pair of pliers."

Diplomats say this illustrates how the President is keeping his finger on every detail of the Paris truce talks.

No End in Sight for Prices

Some time before the end of this week, the Bureau of Labor Statistics will again make headlines across the land with the disclosure that its Consumer Price Index jumped another hefty percentage in August to an alltime peak of around 122 (1957-59 equals 100). This will mean that our cost of living is continuing to run a painful 4 1/4 per cent or so ahead of a year ago, the steepest rate of rise in almost two decades.

It will mean that the market basket of goods and services which cost you $10 about 10 years ago costs you $12.20 today. It will mean that the lower-income family and particularly Americans living on fixed incomes are in the worst pocketbook pinch of this era.

It also will underline the message that you have NO HOPE whatsoever for anything more than a slowdown in the rate of rise in living costs as the months roll on.

Computer Goofs

Arthur Lipper Corporation's computer goofed and erroneously included Instrument Systems Corporation in the list of the 50 worst performing stocks on the New York Stock Exchange which I quoted in my column on Tuesday, September 17.

The forces behind this upsurge in prices have become far too powerful to permit an abrupt reversal. A more moderate rate of increase is a reasonable expectation as tax-spending restraints take hold but that's all you may reasonably expect. It would take a deep recession, which we do not face, to bring us quickly back to the comparative price stability we enjoyed until the escalation of the Vietnam war in mid-1965.

But, dramatic though that round figure of 4 1/4 per cent is, it still hides some highly significant, equally dramatic points about living costs. To name three:

(1) Many items you must and want to buy are up much more than 4 1/4 per cent in the past three years and in the past 12 months alone. For instance, among foods, fruits and vegetables; all items of clothing; virtually all costs of buying and owning a home, ranging from mortgage rates and taxes to operation and repairs.

(2) Up far, far more than 4 1/4 per cent are the services you need and want, across the board. Medical care services have been skyrocketing year after year and now dental care services are beginning to leapfrog. Repair services, legal services, bank service charges, personal care - they're all zooming. And because of the giant importance of the "labor" component in services, these costs will not go down.

(3) Up less than 4 1/4 per cent, and even down in price, is a small and dwindling list but in this category are impressive items. As an illustration, utilities; many appliances, prescription drugs, such foods as coffee and eggs.

Here's a table, based on BLS compilations of average retail prices, which will summarize the tale far more than words.

Physician, house call	$9.09	$10.43

Out of these 19 familiar items in every household, only four down and one unchanged - that's more than a fair indication of what's happening to our cost of living. And out of all the items going into that overall headline figure of 4 1/4 per cent, not one actually changed by this amount, up or down, that's the real-life story behind any "average."

Campaign Report Card

HARRISBURG — Most certainly one of the more interesting documents to come off the political presses must be the campaign "report card" issued by the Republican State Committee purportedly showing that the party via the Republican Shafer Administration has "made good" on 94.4 per cent of its 1966 platform promises.

All of which shows what happens when students mark their own report cards!

Denison

For example, the document gives the Shafer Administration a perfect 9 for 9 in the field of higher education.

But from the non-politically aligned "Professor" the report card shows something quite different in the scoring department.

The "Professor" is a quarterly publication of the Pennsylvania State Education Association, a nonpartisan group that represents most of the school teachers of this state.

In an article prepared for "The Professor," George W. Walton, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, gives the Administration a failing grade in higher education. The Pennsylvania Association for Colleges and Universities represents virtually all of the institutions of higher learning in Pennsylvania.

Title of the article (written before issuance of the GOP "report card") is "How Has Higher Education Fared Under the Shafer Administration?"

"Professor" Walton's conclusion: "The batting average of this administration has been rather low. One would estimate it to be less than 25 percent."

One of the promises on which Mr. Walton and the administration disagree is the Republican platform pledge to "provide long-term, interest-free loans to private colleges for modernized facilities." The operational world in this promise is "interest-free" since colleges have been able to borrow money as long as they paid interest.

In summary of the administration's record, "The Professor" points out that the bill had been enacted into law - but that it enables colleges "to finance projects at an interest cost approximately equivalent to that of other state obligations!"

In another area under the higher education field, the Shafer Administration assumes credit for starting a program for "a Board of Regents for administration of the state college system." The GOP "report" comfortably ignores a promise to "give increased operational and purchasing autonomy to the state colleges and eliminate political interference."

Mr. Walton's article said that "at present time, there is considerable doubt whether these bills will pass the Senate."

Actually, the (Republican-controlled) Senate has emasculated one of the bills and bottled the other up in committee. The State College autonomy bill, as amended by a Senate committee, gives more autonomy to politically appointed local Boards of Trustees than they have at present!

The Administration is also given credit for fulfilling a promise to "provide increased support for state colleges." But the article in "The Professor" points out that "support given to state-related institutions was not sufficient for them to be able to maintain their $450 tuition. They have had to increase their tuition by about $100."

And - the Republican document said that the Shafer Administration has "started" to move toward an increase of the scholarship program to $60 million. The document omitted the word "immediately" that was included in the GOP platform. The Walton article points out that the scholarship program was increased by about $15 million. This brings state scholarship aid up to $47 million.

Mr. Walton also points out that the Administration's $5.3 million program of aid to private schools for doctoral programs has been bottled up in the Senate and committed to the Appropriations Committee.

The $500,000 program for loans to students for graduate study met a similar fate when it was not included in the Governor's budget.

The Walton article is not an unbalanced tome; it does give His Excellency credit for increased aid in several categories and for passing the Higher Education Facilities Act, plus increased help for the state colleges - but it isn't quite as glowing as the GOP's own idea of what its report card should be like!

The Outrage Drain

WASHINGTON — Can't anything be done about limiting the number of persons and things that make our blood boil? The capacity for outrage in the average man is a highly limited and extremely precious resource, yet nowadays the drain on it is almost constant.

Take last week for example. It was a week in which we were expected to be angry about Justice Abe Fortas, George Wallace, Hubert Humphrey, Richard Nixon, Strom Thurmond, and the New York school teachers and Spiro Agnew. This is a big demand on the outrage gland even when we are well rested.

Last week we were not well rested. We were still expected to ooze occasional venom against Mayor Daley, the press, the police and student militants.

As if all this were not enough, who should barge back onto page one demanding still more of the public's wrath but Mark Rudd, the Columbia Robespierre? There he was on Thursday morning's front page disrupting the police on Morningside Heights in an attempt to squeeze the drugs from the public bile reservoir.

This was inconsiderate of Mr. Rudd, to say the least. His cause undoubtedly seems to him so monumentally urgent that it justifies any excess, but to those of us who are less engaged than he, his claim on the depleted rage bank was too much.

Already the day is too short to permit adequate seizures of fury against everything that we, as concerned citizens, are expected to rage against. Anger in any form is almost impossible before breakfast, and then, over the eggs, a man cannot successfully boil up against much more than the Presidential candidates, the Russian invaders of Czechoslovakia, the Supreme Court and the criminal activities of the preceding night.

On the way to work, when a man's natural instinct is to cultivate his hatred of the transit system and the automobile, he must instead use up valuable capacity for outrage on university presidents and the C.I.A., or risk feeling like a man without political commitment.

At the office and later at lunch he will have to put out more of his dwindling anger on Tom Hayden, Stokely Carmichael, the gun lobby and the Attorney General.

As a result, the average person's fury is spent by the middle of the day, and all he has left to get him through the evening is a weak residue of mild irascibility, is mild irascibility enough to gratify the needs of Rev. Ralph Abernathy, the S.D.S., the hippies and Yuppies, the John Birch Society, LeRoi Jones, H.L. Hunt, Charles de Gaulle and Ronald Reagan, to cite just a few who make claims on the public rage?

It is not. These people expect to see us livid with anger. In the last few years there has developed a new style of politics based on the assumption that the way to achieve results is to make the public mad enough to go home and break up the furniture.

The people who practice this politics — right, left and center — need all the rage the public can muster in order to carry out their plans for saving civilization. It is a common-place nowadays to complain that there

THE HARRIS SURVEY

In the latest Harris Survey, taken in mid-September, GOP presidential nominee Richard Nixon holds an 8-point lead over Democrat Hubert Humphrey — 39 to 31 per cent. Third-party candidate George Wallace has gained ground on both major-party nominees and his nationwide share of the vote has risen from 17 to 21 per cent in the space of three weeks.

Here are the standings in the three-way contest since June, as measured in consecutive Harris Surveys:

	NIXON	HUMPHREY	WALLACE	NOT SURE
	PER CENT	PER CENT	PER CENT	PER CENT
Sept. 11-13	39	31	21	9
Aug. 24	40	34	17	9
July 25-29	36	41	16	7
July 6-11	35	37	17	11
June 11-16	36	43	13	8

The current Nixon lead is well outside the probable margin of sampling error — 3 to 4 per cent in a cross section of this size. In this latest survey, a probability cross section of 1,322 voters, first surveyed between July 6-11, were reinterviewed in person in their homes in order to determine actual shifts among identical voters over the past two months. This also makes it possible to assess what has happened to voters who were prepared to vote for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Sen. Eugene McCarthy before the two national party conventions.

The results of this reinterviewing indicate that 43 per cent of Rockefeller's one-time supporters are not yet prepared to cast their ballots for Nixon. By the same token, 42 per cent of all McCarthy backers say they are not inclined today to vote for Humphrey.

The discontent of the American electorate with the available choices in 1968 is reflected in the phenomenon of both major-party candidates polling less than 40 per cent of the total vote only six weeks before Election Day.

Nixon and Humphrey both are confronted with the problem of healing wounds opened up by their battles for the nomination. Here is the way the July Rockefeller and McCarthy voters now divide in this election:

WHERE ROCKEFELLER AND MCCARTHY VOTE HAS GONE
IN JULY, PREFERRED:
	ROCKEFELLER PER CENT	MCCARTHY PER CENT
Voting Preference Now:
Nixon	57	21
Humphrey	26	58
Wallace	10	12
Not sure	7	9

Humphrey wins 26 per cent of the Rockefeller vote, compared with Nixon taking only 21 per cent of the McCarthy vote. Humphrey wins a somewhat higher 58 per cent of the McCarthy vote than the 57 per cent of the Rockefeller vote which Nixon is able to count as his own. But these results indicate that a sizable portion of the "new politics" vote in America has not yet come down with any deep conviction behind either Humphrey or Nixon.

However, the rise of the Wallace vote also indicates that the conservative vote is far from settled either. In the past three weeks, Wallace has gained appreciable ground among independents, in small towns and rural areas, among the wealthy, the young and white Protestants. Among all of these groups, Wallace has gained more than five percentage points since the last week of August.

There is no doubt that Wallace is hurting Nixon far more than Humphrey at this stage of the campaign. In this most recent survey, Wallace voters were asked which of the two major candidates they would prefer if the former Alabama governor were out of the race. In a two-way contest Nixon would lead Humphrey by 14 points instead of 8:

	TWO-WAY RACE TOTAL VOTERS PER CENT
Nixon	50
Humphrey	36
Not sure	14

The dilemma these latest results pose for Nixon is that, if he is to hold his lead, he must find a way to fend off further erosion from Wallace. Alternatively, he would need to bring over more one-time Rockefeller voters. Wallace and Rockefeller supporters, however, are poles apart politically.

Comparably, Humphrey's problem is how to bring in the McCarthy vote, over 40 per cent of which still is not with him. In addition, Humphrey will have to decide whether he wants to try to keep together the crumbling ranks of the Democratic Party among Southern and labor union voters or go for the Rockefeller vote, made up largely of independents, young people and the affluent.

Changes Made in Sewage Laws

HARRISBURG — A provision of the Pennsylvania Sewage Facilities Act that exempted homes being built on lots larger than one acre in size from compliance with permit requirements has been eliminated by amendments to the Act that recently became effective.

In effect, all new construction in the State utilizing individual sewage disposal systems and all alterations of existing systems must now meet the minimum standards set forth in the Act.

Harry Steigman, director of the Pennsylvania Department of Health's Division of Sanitation, said that this will permit more uniform application of standards on a State-wide basis.

The Pennsylvania Sewage Facilities Act, which became effective on January 1, provides for the planning and regulation of community and individual sewage disposal systems and requires municipalities to submit plans for such systems in their jurisdiction.

Though the new amendments to the Act require all construction of individual sewage systems to comply with standards for on-lot systems, the need for a permit is waived for certain new single and two-family homes in municipalities with a population density of less than 300 per square mile.

Two other changes of the Act also became effective as a result of recent amendments.

One of these authorizes the appointment of supervisors of Second Class Townships to serve as inspectors under the requirements of the legislation. Previously such supervisors were not permitted under State law to serve in this capacity.

The second provides the mechanics for making appeals under the Act in accordance with

Volkswagen leaps into the present.

With a fully automatic transmission

If you bet a friend we never would, we almost didn't.

10 years ago the decision was made. To design a fully automatic transmission. The kind you put in drive and forget.

Our aim was to make things easy, but for us changes aren't easy to make.

Especially in this case. There were certain things we just didn't want to lose. Like horsepower, and our reputation for being economical.

What we've ended up with is a 3-speed automatic transmission that's pure Volkswagen—designed from scratch to get the most out of the VW with the least expenditure of effort.

It has the fewest moving parts.

It's the lightest per horsepower output. And it's incredibly sensitive. (A model airplane engine is powerful enough to turn it.)

So come see how far Volkswagen has come.

The Squareback and Fastback. Both have disk brakes, an electronically controlled fuel injection system, and now, a fully automatic transmission.

If you're interested, it's available as an option on our '69 models.

If you're not interested, we sure went to a lot of trouble for nothing.

AN OPEN HOUSE WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY, the 25th, at the local office of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways. This is in conjunction with the official Pennsylvania Highways Week. Hours will be from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., and that's not all, the Pennsylvania Highways Information Association is going to supply balloons and refreshments for this social, as well as educational, occasion! The offices are located on Route 6, three miles west of Warren, and invitations are extended to the general public by County Superintendent Elton D. Barton and his staff.

STUDENTS WHO COULD DO BETTER, BUT SOMEHOW DON'T might like to know that the American Educator Encyclopedia says — A. Interest in what is to be studied is essential to success; B. the pursuit of too many interests slows up learning (you can become involved in too much and scatter your energies); C. schedule activities, keeping a good balance in social, recreational, cultural and intellectual pursuits; D. there are NO shortcuts enabling any student to get by without effort; E. long-term planning is necessary, but broken down into immediate goals (inspiration can come from day-dreaming, but the realization of the dreams comes only from vigorous attacks upon the immediate goals); F. regular and systematic study time, which can bend a little with the schedule planned for the day (in other words don't be too rigid); G. speed and accuracy go together — you learn best working under some pressure — therefore, study against time, (this will help you develop speed); H. jotting things down on paper is a good device for remembering (only jot what you want to remember); I. review is necessary for permanent learning but, reading without thinking does not produce learning — jotting comes in handy here; J. fatigue should be avoided — don't study too long without periods of relaxation; on the other hand, it doesn't do to rest so long you lose interest and have trouble getting started again. — Now, there you are, good study habits in a nutshell from people who know.

The First meeting of the Fall season of the Woman's Society United Methodist Church was held in Fellowship hall, Mrs. Robert Young played several selections while the ladies were assembling.

Mrs. R. M. Rapp, president, called the meeting to order and Miss Martha Bartoole the devotions using as her theme "What is right with the Church?" closing with a poem by Rosie Crane, "The Church."

Mrs. Frances Ramsey was introduced by the vice-president, Mrs. John Huston and gave a very interesting talk on Religion in the early days of the County. She said the first real church building to be erected was in Youngsville in 1809 in this territory. There had been lots of meetings held in different homes around the county but that was the first real church.

After Mrs. Ramsey's talk, the business meeting was conducted. Mrs. Ruth Crooks announced that the first study class "Christ in the Crises of South East Asia" would be held on Tuesday, October 1, at 7:30 p.m., and would continue for four consecutive weeks. It was also announced that the new Bishop would be at First Church on September 29, at 7:30 p.m. and all were urged to attend if possible.

Mrs. Flora Haupin had a display of the "Christmas" Cards and asked anyone interested in purchasing some to contact any member of the Clemens Class. The social hour was in charge of the LeGrand Smith Circle with Helen Shelgreen and Dottie Chittester co-hostesses.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR FOLKS:

Here's a tip for those of you who have lap dogs.

We know that these little dogs are not supposed to be bathed too often. But because they do sit in our lap while we're watching TV, etc., and we are continually rubbing them with our hands, their hair gets oily.

The other day when I could not bathe my little dog, I got out a box of cornstarch. After all, I figured if you could take out a lot of grease spots this way, why couldn't it clean my doggy?

I poured some cornstarch in my hand and rubbed him gently. As soon as it was mixed into the dog's hair, I rubbed him thoroughly with a DRY washcloth. After rubbing, the pretty little coat was almost greaseless.

Then using his brush, I brushed him until he was all nice, fluffy and clean again.

And, by the way, while we are talking about brushes and combs for pets, we found that a baby comb and brush was not only inexpensive, but excellent for these little lap dogs.

Let me caution you about one thing, though. Don't try to give your little dog this dry shampoo while he's sitting on your nice carpet or your favorite chair. That cornstarch flies like mad when he shakes!

Heloise P. S. Don't forget to take an old towel and false-dry your little dog after his "bath." You'll get him real clean this way.

P. P. S. Some people use corn meal the same way on larger dogs with good results.

DEAR HELOISE:

When arranging cut flowers, I often find some have been cut too short.

My remedy is a woven plastic scour pad in the bottom of the vase. This allows the stems to get water and the pad makes an excellent frog.

Mary Elisabeth Martin Is Bride Of Edward J. Geckle

Mary Elisabeth Martin and Edward Joseph Geckle were united in marriage at 12 o'clock noon on Saturday, September 21, in St. Joseph Church. The celebrant of the Nuptial Mass was the Rev. Father Norman A. Smith, and altar boys serving the Mass were Terrence Martin, brother of the bride, and John Collins. Commentator was Anthony Vitelli of Baltimore, Md. White mums and gladioli ornamented the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Edward J. Martin of 219 Oneida Avenue, Warren, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Edward J. Geckle of 2909 Dunaway Avenue, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Escorted on the arm of her brother, Navy Lieutenant Jerome L. Martin, the bride appeared in an imported silk organza gown with bolero yoke of Venetian lace styled with high rounded neckline coming to a V in the back, and cap sleeves. A gracefully sweeping cathedral train, with insertions of the lace, completed the gown. A tiara of seed pearls and aurora borealis sequins secured her bouffant tiered veil and she carried a bouquet of small apricot rosebuds and white stephanotis.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Jerome L. Martin, sister-in-law of the bride, of Long Beach, Calif., was in pale apricot Karate linen with matching bow headpiece. Gowned identically were the bridesmaids, Miss Roseann Rafferty of Philadelphia, and Miss Veronica Vi-telli of Erie. All had bouquets of white stephanotis.

The best man was John P. Malone of Cincinnati, Ohio, and ushers were Thomas Martin, brother of the bride, David Eisenhauer, Timothy Martin, and James Vonderhaar, the last three all of Cincinnati.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Martin selected a lime green brocade knit dress with matching coat, and the mother of the groom, a lime silk worsted dress with matching coat. Both had corsages of white cymbidium orchids. The grand-mother of the groom, Mrs. George Geckle of Baltimore, Md., was also among those present and had a corsage of white cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held for one hundred and fifty guests at the Woman's Club. Aides were Miss Denise Neurohr, cousin of the bride; Miss Mary Harding; the Misses Margaret and Agnes Martin, aunts of the bride; Mrs. L. Melvin Peterson and Mrs. Dennis Buerkle.

For a wedding trip to Florida and the Bahamas, the new Mrs. Geckle traveled in an ensemble of beige dress and natural color Irish linen coat. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Geckle will reside at 8208 Seymour road, Gaines, Michigan.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School, class of 1964, and of Bryant & Stratton Business Institute, 1965. She was employed for the summer at the Warren County Motor Club.

Ochs-Nichols Wedding Is Solemnized In St. Joseph's

One hundred and fifty guests gathered at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church for the wedding of Aleta Ann Ochs and Jerry Michael Nichols on Saturday morning, September 21, at 10 o'clock. The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Regis Ochs and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Nichols of 1520 Allegheny avenue, Warren.

The Reverend Father Norman Smith, assistant pastor, was celebrant at the nuptial Mass. Mrs. Thomas Donnelly, organist, provided the music for the double ring ceremony. Two baskets of white gladioli and carnations ornamented the altar.

Given in marriage by her brother, Regis Ochs Jr., the bride approached the altar gown in white velvet. A wateau train flowed from the shoulders of her A-line gown into chapel length. The wrist length sleeves were trimmed with Venice lace. Her headpiece was a full length scallop veil of silk illusion trimmed with crystals. Her bouquet was philanopsis orchids and stephanotis.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Carol Griebel of Erie, was adorned in a peacock blue velvet gown and a matching velvet flowered headpiece. Her bouquet was of white spider mums. The bridesmaids, Rosemarie Gatesman and Jean Mick, both of Lucinda, Pa., and Sandra Rosa of Lorain, Pa., were dressed similarly to the honor attendant. Their bouquets were of yellow mums.

Peter Nichols Jr., brother of the bridegroom, served as best

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: May I say a word to N. Y. Dilemma, the woman whose husband suffered "a small stroke" and now demands all her time and attention? It happened to my father, or I should say to my mother. Although it was Father who had the "small stroke," it was Mother who died from it.

For 14 years Mother waited on him hand and foot—"get me this. . . bring me that. . . I'm ready for my bath now. . . I'd like some hot tea." Mother pushed him around the house in a converted kitchen chair because he hated the idea of being in a wheel chair.

The first year Mother lost 15 pounds (which Father gained). She left the house only to bring in groceries or to do Father's errands. Her social life was zero. She dropped out of the bridge club, the church circle—everything. She couldn't even have visitors to the house because Father was always needing something.

Mother died last year—a blessed and welcome release from her slavery. Father is still alive—in a convalescent home. If I knew 15 years ago what I know now, I would have insisted that Mother get a "sitter" for Father two afternoons a week and an evening or two as well. His stroke was slow death for her. —BITTER

DEAR BITTER: The "slow death" you described was more than just exploitation by a sick and selfish person. It would not have occurred had your mother not been a martyr type who was willing to allow it.

ANN, BABY: Your column is a gas. Sometimes I cry my eyes out. Other times I bust up laughing. But those cutesy wootsy names like Bub, Buster, Buddy Boy, Cupcake and Lamb Chop detract from your otherwise sensible advice. So, knock it off, will you, Doll? Some of your correspondents are twice your age and you ought to be more respectful. —ARCHIE

DEAR ARCHIE: Thanks. I'll watch it, Honeybun.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 35. My husband is 37. We are professional people and have a six-year-old daughter. We both feel that perhaps Ruth should have a little brother or sister. She is unusually precocious and somewhat spoiled. Frankly, I am less enthusiastic about a second child than my husband. While he has said he doesn't care one way or the other, I suspect he would be pleased if he had a son.

We agreed to leave it up to Ruth and yesterday we asked her how she would like to have a baby sister or brother. She made it clear that she doesn't want a new baby in the house and has threatened to run away if we "surprise" her with one.

What is your opinion, Ann?—IN DOUBT

DEAR IN: A couple who would let a six-year-old decide whether or not to have another child is in a bad way. I'm afraid you may already have more than you can handle.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Holy Redeemer Church Scene Of Mostert-Saunders Nuptials

and Mrs. M. F. Saunders of 1846 Market street Ext.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Mrs. Thomas Donnelly at the organ, and Larry Stainbrook, vocal soloist. Vases of blue and white gladioli adorned the altar, and a miniature bouquet of flowers was placed at the altar of the Blessed Virgin by the bride.

Escorted on the arm of her father, the bride appeared in a gown of light ivory imported French crepe, fashioned in a Directoire silhouette. Scrolls of Venetian lace defined the empire bodice which had a bateau neckline and short sleeves edged with the lace. A graceful floating back panel was highlighted with the lace. A mantilla of silk illusion, falling to chapel length, formed her train; it too had scrolls of the lace. She carried a cascade of white Jack Frost roses, centered with blue tipped roses and English ivy.

Mrs. Jean Kondak, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor in a gown of peacock faille taffeta styled similarly to that of the bride, and a matching velvet floret cluster held her butterfly veil. She carried a Victorian bouquet of purple and lavender asters with blue miniature carnations. Costumed identically were the bridesmaids, Mrs. Eleanor Mostert, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Jodi Mostert, sister of the bride.

Best man was Edward McElwain, and ushers were Frederick Printz, brother-in-law of the groom, and William Mostert, brother of the bride. The mother of the bride wore a three piece suit of green lace knit with brown accessories and a corsage of miniature yellow carnations. The mother of the groom was in a royal blue moire dress with matching accessories and had a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

Approximately one hundred and fifty attended the reception in Glade Township Fire Hall. Decorations were carried out in blue and white with candleabra and flowers at the bride's table, and floral centerpiece at each of the guest tables. The three tier wedding cake was trimmed in pale blue and white, topped with a goodole led by swans; flowers and greenery encircled the base of the cake. Aides were Mrs. Fern Russell, aunt of the bride, Mrs. Vilma Sillano, Mrs. Judy Massa, Mrs. Lynda Siller and Miss Beverly Musante.

For a wedding trip to Puerto Rico, the new Mrs. Saunders traveled in a knit suit of light and dark beige with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Saunders will be at home, after September 29, at 559 Scranton Hollow road, Warren.

The bride is a graduate of Warren Area High School, and is employed as a secretary for Campbell-Ellsworth, Inc., of Warren. The groom, a graduate of Warren High School and of Pennsylvania Military College, served two years as an officer in the U.S. Army and is now employed by the New Process

CALCIUM AND ARTHRITIS

Q. Is it true that too much calcium in the diet will cause arthritis?

A. Medical science has not discovered the cause of arthritis but the condition is certainly not due to excessive dietary calcium. The protective mechanisms of the body regulate the absorption and excretion of calcium so that we retain only a sufficient amount to meet our needs. There is no scientific evidence that arthritis can be prevented or cured by following a particular dietary regimen.

LANOLIN

Q. Almost all hair and skin preparations contain lanolin. What is lanolin?

A. Lanolin is wool fat, which is secreted by the oil glands of sheep. It adheres to the wool fibers and is extracted by various means. Lanolin improves the softening effect of creams and ointments, helps prevent excessive dryness of the skin, and decreases the drying properties of shampoos (while also reducing their cleansing power). Lanolin is a useful product, but does not perform magic. It will not prevent or cure wrinkles, stop hair loss, or produce curly hair.

How to bake Hawaiian cake

CREAMY HAWAIIAN CAKE

2 cups cake flour	3/4 cup milk
1 1/2 cup sugar	1/2 tsp. almond extract
3 tsp. baking powder	1/2 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. salt	1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup soft shortening	2 egg yolks—unbeaten
	1 whole egg—unbeaten

1. Generously grease and flour two 8-inch round cake pans.
2. Sift together cake flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt.
3. Add soft shortening, 3/4 cup milk, almond extract, and vanilla; beat two minutes.
4. Add remaining 1/2 cup milk, egg yolk and whole egg.
5. Pour into prepared pans; bake in GAS oven at 350°F. for 30 to 35 minutes; cool.
6. Fill cool layers with Pineapple Filling (see recipe below); spread top layer of cake with about 1/2 cup Pineapple Filling, leaving 1 1/2 inch border.
7. Frost cake with sweetened whipped cream or whipped dessert topping.

PINEAPPLE FILLING

1/2 cup sugar	1 cup crushed pineapple, well drained
3 Tbsp. cornstarch	1 Tbsp. butter
1/2 tsp. salt	1 tsp. almond extract
3/4 cup pineapple juice

1. In saucepan, combine sugar, cornstarch, and salt; gradually stir in pineapple juice and crushed pineapple.
2. Bring to boil, stirring constantly; boil one minute; turn off flame; stir in butter and almond extract; cool thoroughly.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ
Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠43 ♥AKJ765 ♠A842 ♠A
Your right hand opponent opens with one diamond.
What do you bid?
A.—Double. While it is true that you are interested in only one suit, there is no overall in hearts that will adequately describe the full strength of your hand. A bid of just one heart is apt to be passed out, while a jump bid of two hearts is now employed as a preemptive measure.

Q. 2—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠QJ5 ♥QJ74 ♠A2 ♠J1064
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
Pass 1 ♠ Double. Pass
1 ♥ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—Five diamonds. So far you have promised absolutely nothing but the holding of four hearts, on the basis of which partner has undertaken to score 10 tricks. The fact that you have the queen-jack of hearts, the spade holding which surely must fit well with partner's hand, and the ace of diamonds, should make it certain that an 11-trick contract would be safe. You should make one try for slam by showing the ace of diamonds.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:
♠KQ1076 ♥97 ♠AQ5 ♠K97
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass
? What do you bid now?
A.—While all the suits are stopped a rebid of two no trump is not recommended. Very little over a minimum is held and a rebid of two spades does justice to the holding. To qualify as a sound rebid of two no trump, the opening hand must have at least 15 high card points.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable and as South you hold:
♠KJ10 ♥QJ106 ♠A105 ♠A74
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
1 ♥ Pass 2 ♥ ?
? What do you bid?
A.—Nothing. You might as well accept a short point. You have no reason to feel confident that you can make three of anything with this unattractive distribution and a double by you would obligate partner to bid.

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KJ964 ♠K3 ♠AQ7432
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
? What do you bid?
A.—Pass. You have already done your full duty by this hand and should not be unduly influenced by the distributional features which you have already described. Your hand is quite minimum as to high cards.

Q. 6—East-West vulnerable. You are South and have 60 part score.
♠742 ♥2 ♠Q10632 ♠J653
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
1 ♥ Pass ?
? What do you bid?
A.—It is my practice to go to great lengths to keep the bidding open when an advanced part score is held, but this is going too far. Too frequently have complications set in by virtue of South's "spouting" of one on trump in situations such as this. Partner has received no warning, and carries on the fight against the expected competition to his great disaster. One cannot expect always to be right in these situations, but I am persuaded that the pass will be wiser in most cases.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠72 ♥KJ9753 ♠K4 ♠742
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South
2 NT Pass ?
? What do you bid?
A.—This hand stands a very good chance of producing five or six tricks for partner and consequently is on the verge of a slam. The best way to indicate such a holding is by a big jump hearts. Our own preference is for five hearts.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠Q1086 ♥65 ♠AK43 ♠752
The bidding has proceeded:

Your Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1968.
ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Amidst any furor, remain calm, circumspect. A favorable period for those of you who are on the right track, using talents ably in order to get a better share of existing benefits.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—New advantages and opportunities indicated, but they can only be won by diligent effort, alertness, consistency and accuracy.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—Results of this day will be largely up to yourself. Determine objectives before making moves and concentrate only on essentials and activities which are potentially profitable.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Be selective in your undertakings now, but when proper plans have been made, proceed with confidence. Update all methods, systems.
LEO (July 24 to August 23)—You should feel highly stimulated now. This is a day for ACTION! With an enthusiastic approach and timely techniques working for you, you should make fine progress toward desirable goals.
VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—A better-than-average day, yet it will get you nowhere unless you emphasize consistency of action and general efficiency. Attitudes of lethargy or pessimism will negate efforts.
LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Synchronize endeavors so that persons working with you will cooperate in surer fashion. Crystallize thoughts and methods before swinging into action.
SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22)—Emphasize method and system in day's activities. Also maintain an even pace: You will accomplish more than by working in "fits and starts." Domestic interests highly favored.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21)—Be aggressive in your drive for success, but do all with an awareness of proper procedure. And DON'T let others dampen your enthusiasm or optimism about results.
CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20)—Be sure before you tackle a "way out" project or brand new venture. But do not fear your ability to handle one. Just be sure of facts.
AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19)—Stay within reasonable boundaries. At the same time, however, attempt whatever you feel you have the ability to handle. Sidetrack nonessentials.
PISCES (February 20 to March 20)—Spot any trouble-some areas and tackle them promptly—with a smile! Don't let ANYTHING get you down. Day indicates the likelihood of new opportunity for advancement.

YOU BORN TODAY are able, roundly talented, quick to think out a matter, prompt in carrying out orders. In fact, you manage far more than your voice and manner would indicate. What you do is usually done so quietly that you rarely project your REAL image to others. Even with loved ones you are usually unobtrusive. A more facile expressiveness on your part would go a long way toward winning for yourself the understanding for which you continually yearn. Your leanings are toward the creative and you could succeed in practically any one of the arts. Birthdate of: Augustus, Roman emperor; Romy Schneider, cinema actress.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

(c) 1968 by The Chicago Tribune
To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

OVERDOING AEROSOLS IN ASTHMA
PRESSURIZED aerosols are popular remedies for asthma, emphysema, and other bronchial conditions. The inhalers contain powerful adrenalin-like drugs, such as epinephrine and isoproterenol. Several of these products are on the market, and the majority require a prescription.

Overuse of these drugs has been blamed for many deaths even tho a cause-and-effect relationship has not been established. It is for this reason they should be used only as directed.
Epinephrine and isoproterenol are sympathomimetic drugs. In other words, they relieve spasm and reduce swelling of the bronchial tree in much the same way nasal drops open up a congested nose. Nebulized products are readily absorbed into the system because they are inhaled in the form of a fine mist.

Excessive amounts produce palpitation and rapid beating of the heart. The user feels inwardly nervous and jittery; the skin is likely to be flushed. Sympathomimetics also raise the blood pressure and should not be used by victims of heart trouble or hypertension. In addition, people who are overly sensitive to adrenalin-like products have an exaggerated cardiovascular response.

Aerosols are popular because one or two inhalations usually controls mild or moderate attacks of asthma. But they have two shortcomings. First, the asthmatic develops a dependency to them, and in time, many more inhalations may be needed for control. Secondly, a rebound phenomenon occurs, a common aftermath with many drugs.

Epinephrine, for example, relieves spasm and swelling, but when the effect wears off, more severe symptoms return. In time, the period of relief is so short that the remedy is used constantly or the person is told to switch to aminophylline, a corticosteroid, or oxygen inhalation. Procrastinators are asking for trouble. Many asthmatic individuals who died during an attack were using from 6 to 50 times the recommended dose. In all probability, the heart could not take the chemical whipping given by epinephrine and isoproterenol.

TOMORROW: Phenol for Filonidial Cyst.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if detailed, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

CAUSES OF HEAD SOUNDS
G. V. writes: I have peculiar knockings in my head. Could this be due to hardening of the arteries of the brain?

REPLY
No. The sounds are not coming from your arteries. In some instances, humming is produced by a dilated segment of an artery (aneurysm). In others, the noise stems from grating of the vertebrae of the neck or from a disturbance of the ears or jaws.

TREATING THE STUTTERER
B. T. writes: Can anything be done for a 5-year-old child who stutters? Her speech is so indistinct that it is hard to understand what she is saying.

REPLY
Ask the family physician to recommend a speech clinic or a speech specialist. Meanwhile, be sympathetic and patient and not critical or hostile.

Monday's TV Highlights

MONDAY NIGHT MOVIE on Ch. 11 at 8 p.m. is "The Collector" with Samantha Eggar and Terence Stamp. Freddie Clegga, a young London bank clerk whose hobby is the collecting and mounting of butterflies, wins $200,000 in the football pools. The money changes his life completely. He sends his hateful aunt on a trip to Canada. He then buys an old secluded house in Sussex and kidnaps Miranda, a lovely young girl he has been admiring from afar.

HERE'S LUCY premieres on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 8:30 p.m. Lucy gets her brother-in-law employer to give her son and his musical group the job of playing for a teenagers' birthday party. Lucille Ball stars as Lucy Carter, a Los Angeles widow with a teenage daughter and son, played by her real-life children.

MAYBERRY R.F.D. finds Andy Griffith as Andy Taylor wedding his long-time girlfriend, Helen, on Chs. 4, 10 and 35 at 9 p.m.

THE OUTCASTS on Ch. 7 at 9 p.m. is an hour-long Western adventure series premiering this season. Don Murray is a disillusioned Virginian aristocrat and war hero, and Otis Young plays a former slave who escaped to the West during the War.

AMERICA on Ch. 4 at 9:30 p.m., with Robert Taylor as guest host, takes his family on a special sightseeing tour of the nation's capital in "Star Spangled City—Part I."

Whether it's a restaurant or a saxophone - this modern market place for offerings of all kinds is seen by thousands of readers. Dial 723-1400.

MONDAY NIGHT AT THE MOVIES at 2, 6, and 12 at 9 p.m. presents "The Art of Love" with Dick Van Dyke and Elke Sommer. In Paris, an unsuccessful American writer concocts a phony suicide scheme for a ne'er-do-well American artist hoping the stunt will promote the sale of the painter's paintings.

Sheffield Clips Youngsville; Eisenhower Gets Clobbered

Wolverines Out-Muscle Eagles In 13-0 Intra-County Victory

By DAVID PIRILLO
Sheffield's Wolverines made it their seventh straight win over their arch rivals, the Eagles of Youngsville, Saturday afternoon, in a 13-0 plucking in the birds' nest.

The Orange and Black scored in the opening minutes of play; as in Youngsville's first two contests, the Eagles were forced to play catch-up football all afternoon. The win for coach Joe Giordano and the Sheffield Wolverines was their second in three appearances.

The temperature soared into the middle 80's and added yet another strain to both squads. It may have been the heat—and yet it might not have; but whatever the cause, Youngsville never got offensively motivated.

Sheffield dominated the day's action, especially on the ground. The visitors waltzed around the Eagles' ends and through their holes for a 254-yard performance. Quarterback Tim Heel added 50 more yards in the air on a three-for-six effort.

On the other side of the ledger Youngsville had 134 net yards, 108 of the total came rushing and the rest in the air. The hosts could neither run or pass on Sheffield with much success. The closest they came was in the late stages of the third and midway through the fourth, when they snapped up two Wolverine fumbles in Sheffield territory, only to have them both go dead on the 23.

The game was played pretty much around the middle of the field. Both Sheffield scores came on long runs, one of 32 yards and the second, a 78 yard jaunt.

Sheffield came out with an idea on how to beat the heat. Rick Grubbs took the opening kickoff and raced 45 yards to the Eagle 35. On the second play from scrimmage Bob Shaffer rolled around the right end on a power-sweep and scampered 32 yards for the score. Ted Morrison added the extra point in splitting the uprights.

SHS	YHS
5 First Downs	6
314 Total yards	134

50 Yards passing	26
6 Passes attempted	12
1 Passes completed	4
0 Interceptions	1
85 Yards Penalized	30
2 Fumbles lost	2

From this point on it wasn't much of a game for thrill-seekers. It was more of a give-and-take type deal with nobody getting anywhere. This is the way things continued until midway through the final segment. Sheffield stopped an Eagle attempt to score with six minutes remaining. On the very next play Grubbs took a hand-off from Heel and maneuvered his way around the left end and rocketed 78 yards untouched for the score.

Sheffield will be home this week against the Elk County Christian Crusaders. Their will be an early starting time for this game in accordance with the Johnny Appleseed Festival. The kickoff is slated for 11:30 a.m., Youngsville will hit the road again Friday evening in traveling to Saegertown in search of their first victory.

Indians Edge Angels

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lou Johnson's eighth inning single drove in Tommy Harper with the tie-breaking run and the Cleveland Indians edged the California Angels 2-1 Sunday.

McNally Wins 21st

CHICAGO (AP) — Dave McNally became the winningest pitcher in modern Baltimore history when he registered his 21st victory while pitching the Orioles to a 3-0 shutout over the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

Pitt Was Not Ready

PITTSBURGH (AP) — On Friday coach Dave Hart said his Pitt Panthers "were ready" for UCLA.

But that was before Pitt took a 63-7 drubbing Saturday night in Los Angeles, and saw UCLA take advantage of their every mistake.

Pitt, which never built up a consistent running game, rushed for only 61 yards to the Bruin's 255. Pittsburgh's passing figured for 165 yards to UCLA's 207 but that wasn't the difference.

Quarterback Bill Bolden, groomed as the successor to All-American Gary Beban, was injured in the second quarter and gave way to unheralded Jim Nader. But Nader, playing like a starter, connected on four touchdown passes in his first varsity game. That was the crushing difference.

UCLA scored two touchdowns with 19 seconds to go and defensive halfback Scott Hooks accounted for both with interceptions. He scored the last one.

Hart thought several players made good showings but he said the Panthers just "weren't hitting anybody, punishing anybody out there."

Several times Pittsburgh made sustaining drives in deep Bruin territory, but couldn't break the strong UCLA line near the goal.

At halftime the score was 28-7 and with less than four minutes to go it was 49-7. Then Hook, a junior provided the two defensive gems and the score zoomed.

Pitt will try to get ready for rival West Virginia Saturday at Pitt Stadium.

Twins Tip Athletics

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota's Cesar Tovar pitched one hitless inning and then played all eight other positions Sunday as the Twins edged the Oakland Athletics 2-1.

Tovar became the second player in American League history to play all nine positions in the field in one game. Bert Campaneris of the A's, the first to do it, was the first batter Tovar faced.

Nats Blank Bengals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Home runs by rookies Rich Billings and Brian Alaya and Camilo Pascual's four hit pitching led the Washington Senators to a 6-0 victory over Detroit Sunday, snapping the Tigers' "winning streak at 11 games.

Billings hit his first major league homer following an infield hit by Del Unser in the first inning. Alaya smacked his sixth homer after a walk and Frank Howard's single in the fifth.

Red Sox Top Yanks

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Jerry Moses' two-run homer and Joe Foy's two-run single in the third inning carried the Boston Red Sox past the slumping New York Yankees 5-1 Sunday for their fifth straight victory.

Cincinnati Clips Buffalo 34-23

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati converted a pair of second half pass interceptions into touchdowns Sunday and the surprising Bengals defeated Buffalo 34-23, handing the Bills their third straight American Football League setback.

The triumph marked the first time in the nine-year AFL history that an expansion team scored two victories this early in the season.

The Bengals blew an early 10-point lead but roared back with 24 points in the second half to take the decision.

Buffalo, trailing 27-23 in the last minute of play, appeared headed for a winning touchdown when quarterback Dan Darragh hit flanker Haven Moses with a long pass to the Bengals' 12 yard line. But tackle Dick Cunningham was detected holding on the play and the Bills were pushed back to their own 23.

Dallas Bops Browns On Townes' TD

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Defensive end Willie Townes, a staunch member of the Dallas doomsday defense, rumbled 20 yards with a Frank Ryan fumble Sunday to ignite the Cowboys to a 28-7 National Football League victory over Cleveland.

The 6-4, 260-pound Townes plucked the ball from the ground after tackle Bob Lilly had smashed the Brown quarterback with a vicious tackle. Linebacker Chuck Howley applied a tremendous clearing block, and Townes thundered into the end zone for his first touchdown as a professional.

The touchdown gave Dallas 14-0 lead with 4:38 to play in the second quarter. Earlier, Craig Baynam had scored for the Capitol Division Cowboys on a two-yard run.

The plucky Ryan, bothered all day by a strong Dallas pass rush, came right back to pull Cleveland to but a 14-7 halftime deficit when he nailed speedy Paul Warfield with a perfect 55-yard bomb that beat cornerback Mike Johnson.

The Cowboys opened the second half by driving the ball 72 yards in nine plays with Dan Reeves romping across from the four-yard line for the touchdown. The key play was a 20-yard pass from quarterback Don Meredith to Lance Rentzel who made a leaping catch on the Cleveland nine-yard line.

Dallas and the Century Division Browns both entered the game with 1-0 records. The victory moved the Cowboys into a first place tie in the Capitol Division with New York.

Two pass interference penalties against Erick Barnes in the fourth quarter set Dallas up on the one-yard line for a touchdown plunge by Reeves with but 2:53 left in the game.

U.S. Basketball Will Play The Pros

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Olympic basketball team opens a three-game tour against professional teams Saturday night when it plays the New York Knicks of the National Basketball Association at Madison Square Garden.

The team then will play the Royals of the NBA at Cincinnati Sunday, Sept. 29, and the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association at Denver, Oct. 5.

Joggers Sanctioned

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The jogging craze is getting official sanction from the City of Philadelphia.

The City Department of Recreation plans 10 regional jogging clubs and certificates for successful joggers.

Earl C. Williams, department athletic specialist, said joggers will log their runs under the honor system and will receive certificates for completing 25, 50, 100, 500 and 1,000 miles.

The whole program, Williams said, will be kicked off with a four-mile "jog-in" during the next week.

STICK AROUND RICK
Rick Grubbs seems to get nowhere in bargaining with the Youngsville line for a few yards. One Youngsville defender seems to be pulling Grubbs' shirt off his back, while yet another is bringing him down to the ground with a vain attempt to pry the pigskin loose. The Wolverine halfback later avenged the treatment by springing 78 yards in the last quarter for a score. (Photo by Mahan)

Minnesota built up a 16-0 half-time lead in winning the clash between the two Central Division clubs of the National Football League. The Vikings now have a 2-0 record, and Green Bay is 1-1.

Bill Brown scored on runs of one and 10 yards in the first half for the Vikings, who also added a safety. Bart Starr passed for the Vikings, who also added a safety. Bart Starr passed for the two Packers scores, both in the second half.

In a real stunner, the Detroit Lions, smashed by Dallas in their opener last Sunday, intercepted eight Chicago passes and sent the favored Bears reeling to their second straight defeat, 42-0.

Bill Munson hit rookie Earl McCullough for two Detroit touchdowns and passed to Mel Farr for another.

A third NFL team to be upset was the Washington Redskins, who bowed 37-17 to New Orleans. Don McCall rushed for 127 yards and scored twice for the Saints, who evened their record at 1-1 and gave the Redskins the same mark. Sonny Jurgenson passed for two Washington touchdowns in the second half when the game was out of reach.

The Baltimore Colts ran their NFL record to 2-0, but had to struggle for a 28-20 victory over Atlanta, 0-2. Earl Morrill, again

Celts' Russell Comes To Terms

BOSTON (AP) — Bill Russell, one of the National Basketball Association's all-time greats, has agreed to terms in a two-year contract calling for slightly more than $200,000 per season as player-coach of the Boston Celtics. The Associated Press learned Sunday night.

A source said that formal announcement of Russell's signing will be made within the next couple of days. He received an estimated $150,000 a year in his first two years as player-coach. Russell, who will be 35 in February, led the Celtics to the NBA championship in his second year as player-coach last year.

NHL Seals Drop Penguins

BRANTFORD, Ont. (AP) — Gary Jarrett scored a tie-breaking goal in the third period Saturday night that gave the Oakland Seals a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Penguins in a National Hockey League preseason game.

Joe Scura put Oakland in front with a goal early in the third period before Pittsburgh's Earl Ingarfield tied it with a 20-foot shot.

The game was the first exhibition contest of the new season for the Penguins. For Oakland, it was a second victory.

Wellsville Rolls Over Hapless Knights, 54-6

WELLSVILLE, N.Y. — It's 280 miles from here to Akeley, Pa., and back, and it was a long, long trip indeed for the Knights of Eisenhower High Saturday following a 54-6 drubbing at the hands of Wellsville's Lions.

The Knights of coach Tom Firih — gained one item — a lot of experience under trying conditions — but suffered what looms as a large loss as starting tackle Harry Wilkins severely sprained his ankle and will be out of action for awhile.

The Lions didn't have too much of an edge over the Knights in size, but they were considerably ahead in the speed and coordination departments; and they made these assets tell time after time as they ran roughshod over the Knights' injury-weakened middle line.

Gary Dalrymple scored the lone Eisenhower touchdown late in the fourth quarter on a two-yard drive, capping the only sustained drive of the Knights, a 61-yard march.

Otherwise, it was all Wellsville.

The Lions struck first, the second time they had the ball, and it took them but three plays to travel the required 37 yards. Halfback Glenn Stuck scooted the final ten for the touchdown, and Dave Harkness added the first of his five PAT kic in seven attempts.

On the ensuing kickoff, Eisenhower had but one play as Wellsville's John Richardson intercepted a Jamie Neath pass on the Ike 25. The Knights held, but so did Wellsville on the ensuing series.

Stuck returned an Ike punt to the visitors' 17 and our plays later Richardson and paydirt on a drive up the middle.

Wellsville added two ore touchdowns in the second quarter on runs of 34 yards by Andy Roeske and 33 yards by Rick. In between, Eisenhower angled its deepest penetratr of the half: Andy Bosko chummed 20 yards from his 15 t his 35. Nesmith gained fourm a keeper, and Bosko loked through the middle to the Eisenhower 43. The drive alled there, however.

Mario Outruns Turbine In 200

TRENTON (AP) — Mario Andretti outran a field of 25 other cars, including the controversial STP turbine and a new turbo-charged Ford racer, Sunday to win the seventh annual Trenton "200" at Trenton Speedway.

The Nazareth, Pa., driver's victory came before a standing room only crowd of about 32,000, and brought Andretti $10,810 of the total $45,613 purse.

The victor drove his National Overseas Airways-sponsored Indianapolis type rear-engine racer. But for the first time this year the sleek white and blue car was powered by a turbo-charged Offenhauser.

Andretti had been using Ford racing engines, power plants that gave him three wins and 10 second places this year.

Art Pollard of Medford, Ore., who was driving the turbine powered STP car, was expected to pose a big threat in the "200." But the controversial machine never really came close, and never even reached speeds predicted for it on the basis of time trials.

It started back in sixth place, was a shaky second by the 150-mile mark, and then went out of action with a broken rear suspension.

In the absence of rule changes, this could be the only East Coast appearance for the turbo car. It will be ineligible to run on the Indianapolis car circuit next season.

Andretti's time for the race was one hour, 54 minutes and 47.10 seconds, for an average speed of 104.543 miles per hour.

In the only other AFL action, substitute Jackie Lee passed for two touchdowns, Robert Holmes ran for two and Jan Stenerud booted a pair of goals as Kansas City, 2-1, overwhelmed Denver, 0-2, 34-2.

In other NFL action: Dan Reeves ran for two touchdowns and Craig Baynam one as Dallas, 2-0, beat Cleveland, 1-1, 28-7. Cleveland's score came on a Frank Ryan pass.

Roman Gabriel passed for four touchdowns in leading the Los Angeles Rams, 2-0, to 46-10 bombing of Pittsburgh, 0-2. Ken Nix passed for the Pittsburgh touchdown.

San Francisco, 1-1, rolled over St. Louis, 0-2, as John Brodie threw three scoring strikes and George Mira one. Jim Hart passed for a St. Louis score.

San Diego, 2-0, beat Houston, 1-2, 30-14 and Oakland, 2-0, smashed Miami, 0-2, 47-21 in AFL games Saturday night.

Nigerians Push Toward Biafran HQ

OWERRI, Nigeria (AP) — The Nigerian army pushed toward Biafran headquarters in Umuahia Sunday as federal troops fanned out in four directions from this newly occupied town to fragment the remaining territory held by the secessionists.

The Biafrans, crammed into a shrinking 3,000-square mile triangle, show no signs of quitting despite the tremendous losses suffered in eastern Nigeria's 14-month-old civil war.

"No prisoners surrender. We have only those we capture," said a Nigerian captain.

Other officers reported the Biafrans have renewed mortar attacks, indicating they have a fresh supply of 81mm mortar shells.

Nigerian spokesmen reported that units of the 16th Brigade, 3rd Division, are advancing northwest toward Oguata, in the heart of Ibo country, and eastward toward Umuahia, 32 miles from Owerri. These units are awaiting a linkup with the 14th Brigade, which is fighting northwest of Aba.

The 1st Division is pushing toward the Biafran headquarters from the north. It is believed to have reached Bende, 10 miles northeast of Oguata. The 2nd Division is operating south of Oguata and also is awaiting a linkup with the 16th and 14th Brigades.

Nigerian spokesmen said Sunday federal troops have seized Obilago airstrip 25 miles north of Umuahia. It once was offered by the Biafrans to the Red Cross for emergency airlift of supplies to starving war refugees.

The spokesmen said that when the 2nd Division joins the 3rd Division brigades above Oguata and Orlu, they would be in a position to capture Biafra's last remaining airstrip at Uli and Nlala.

Nigerian officers quoted Biafran prisoners as saying that 600 secessionist troops were massed on the northern road to Orlu for a last desperate defense of these airstrips, their sole means of getting supplies and ammunition.

Drivers Face Breath Tests Starting Sunday

HARRISBURG (AP) — Your breath will be subject to examination beginning next Sunday.

The warning came over the weekend from Gov. Shafer, who pointed out that on Sept. 29 a new state law requiring all suspected drunken drivers to submit to breath tests will go into effect. A driver who refuses to have his breath checked faces suspension of his driving privileges.

The purpose of the breath test is to determine the alcoholic content of a driver's blood.

Shafer said it is presumed that the driver had consented to the test when he obtained his operator's license.

In a weekend statement the governor said the test would be administered by or at the direction of a police officer who had reasonable grounds to believe a person was driving under the influence of alcohol.

The new law also lowers from .15 to .10 the minimum percentage of alcohol in the blood which a breath test must register before a person can be convicted of drunken driving.

It also allows urine samples or blood tests to be taken from the bodies of drivers or pedestrians over 16 years old who have been killed in accidents to determine if they were intoxicated.

Rise in Mortgage Interest Rates Slower Than Recent Months

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — Interest rates on conventional mortgages continued to rise in August but at a slower pace than in other recent months, the Federal Home Loan Bank board reported Sunday.

The board said that the smaller rise "reflected the delayed impact on the mortgage market" of recent declines in money-market rates of interest.

It also cited as a factor in the reduced rate of advance the increases in statutory interest ceilings that went into effect in some states earlier this year, permitting large interest increases at the time of enactment. This influence on interest rates has been sharply reduced, the board said.

Effective rates of interest on mortgages covering new houses rose more in August than those on previously occupied houses. The average effective rate of interest on new and old house mortgages was, in fact, nearly identical during August—7.23 per cent on newly built houses and 7.24 on older ones.

The rate on mortgages on new homes rose 6 basis points during the month, however, while that on older houses rose only 1 basis point.

The average rate of interest in the mortgage contract rose

Democratic Turmoil Caused By Rift Between Liberals

(c) N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — The turmoil in the Democratic party this year is due largely to a deep and growing rift between two types of liberals, according to a study released Sunday.

The two types — called the "Custodial Liberal" and the "Humanistic Liberal" — have crystallized within the liberal bloc that was responsible for enactment of the great domestic programs since the 1930's, the study indicates.

The study was based on a survey of 140 northern and western Democrats in the House of Representatives during July and August by the National Committee For An Effective Congress, which provides money and other support for congressional candidates — mostly classed as liberals — it considers highly motivated.

Until recently the Democrats under study were unified on most issues and have been formally banded together under an organization called the Democratic Study Group.

But in recent months, the committee said in a 3,000-word summary of its report, the liberals have been "torn apart in their search for the life force of American politics."

The Custodial Liberal was identified as the classic, orthodox labor liberal who is a staunch defender of President Johnson's policies.

"He believes in the litany of welfare projects, stressing the numerical, quantitative aspects of problems and politics," the study said. "A self-styled pragmatist, he is contemptuous of intellectuals and nonconformists, of those who challenge the familiar routine of party power and Main Street morality."

There are about 100 Democrats and a dozen Republicans in the House classified as Custodial Liberals by the committee. These include House Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and other members of the Democratic leadership.

The "Humanistic Liberal" — of which there are about 50 Democrats and a dozen Republicans — is "passionately committed to abstract values," is strongly concerned with civil liberties and accepts protest

State Democrats Form Group Called Facts Squad

HARRISBURG (AP) — Objectivity — the process used to obtain the truth by examining the facts — appears to be the major concern of both major parties in this election year.

The Republicans had no sooner re-mobilized their long running "Truth Squad" than the Democrats announced formation of their own investigative group which they call the FACTS Squad.

The purpose of both detective teams is to scan the campaigns of the opposition party's candidates for office, pointing it out loudly when a deviation from the record is detected.

"The 'Truth Squad' has been a component of the Republican election offense since 1952, when then U. S. Representative and now U. S. Senator Hugh Scott headed up truth-finding for the GOP nationally.

FACTS, however, is a new one on most Pennsylvanians. In a weekend announcement, State Democratic Chairman Thomas Z. Minehart explained that FACTS is an acronym meaning "For the Advancement of Corroborated Truth About Shafer."

The committee is to be headed by House Majority Leader Herbert Fineman and Senate Minority Leader Ernest P. Kline.

On the creation of the FACTS Squad, Minehart said:

"The Republicans are fishing for votes. They are using claims, boasts and charges as bait to the unwary. But like mackerel cast up on the beach, many of their statements start to smell when they are exposed to sunlight.

"We intend to cast some light on all of the statements that they make from here on — or at least as many of them as we can."

Members of the Democratic squad are: Deputy State Chairman John M. Lynch; Sens. William G. Sesler of Erie and Martin L. Murray of Ashley; Reps. John R. Galley of York, Harry A. Englehardt Jr. of Ebensburg and Denny Bixler of Altoona, and former Rep. John C. Pittenger of Lancaster.

At another point in the Democratic line of march, Minority Leader Fineman renewed his appeal to Gov. Shafer to reconvene the legislature. Fineman said this most recent call is due to the urgency for passage of two administration anti-crime bills.

In a statement Fineman said the Democrats were prepared to support two of the Shafer-supported anti-crime bills and the witness immunity act and an investigatory grand jury.

The amended version of the witness immunity measure, he noted, was in final position for a vote in the House.

The grand jury measure was on the Senate floor awaiting a vote, Fineman continued. But the two chambers adjourned before the bill could be voted on and sent to the House. Fineman indicated that this proposal may undergo amendment in the Democratic caucus.

In a rejoinder to Fineman's remarks, State Atty. Gen. William C. Bennett said many of the measures could have been passed by the legislature last July had Democrats provided the necessary votes.

Emotional Problems Costly to Business

(c) N.Y. Times News Service NEW YORK — Profits, production and personnel are matters the business community commonly takes in stride.

When it comes to "psychiatry" however, business is still struggling, with mixed resourcefulness, to find its stride. Indeed, according to several knowledgeable participants, to find itself.

Robert B. O'Connor, M.D., vice president in charge of health services of the United States Steel Corp., remarked the other day in his office at the company's Pittsburgh quarters:

"There is something about a word that begins with a 'psychia' that still generates uneasiness, hesitancy, perhaps even suspicion."

He was speaking in his capacity as a widely known senior man of medicine in industry. He made it clear, however, that his observation was meant to cover society as a whole.

Supported by such landmark projects as the so-called "Manhattan Study" (its findings published in 1962), it once accepted the view that the incidence of emotional problems in the general population may run as high as one in four, the cost of this shyness or suspicion about psychiatry is, in human terms, extraordinarily high.

What of the business community?

In a paper published in 1967, Dr. O'Connor suggests that the incidence of emotional problems in the industrial population may run as high as one in eight or ten.

There is, of course, a selection process in industry that takes place at the time of employment — a physical examination, possibly accompanied by psychological probing and, still rather uncommonly, some psychiatric evaluation. The selection process itself continues as an individual remains in harness through annual medical checkups as well as the continuing evaluation of work performance by employers.

It is widely agreed, however, that the incidence of emotional problems in industry remains high. Charles J. Zimmerman, chairman of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co., Hartford, estimates that emotional illness on the job costs business annually $3 billion directly and another $9 billion in indirect costs.

Ingredients of these estimates range all the way from absenteeism and dismissals to workmen's compensations costs.

as "an inevitable social force rather than a breach of law and order," the committee said.

"His focus is on quality in education, conservation, urban design, with prime emphasis on innovation and the role and rights of the individual and less emphasis on the bread and butter goals of the old new deal," the report said. "He has been restive under Johnson and the leadership, which he regards as out of touch with the temper of the time."

The committee found that "the Custodial Democrats almost automatically favored Hubert Humphrey, while the Humanists expressed their private preference for the politics of Eugene McCarthy or Robert Kennedy, regretting that party and union pressure make it imprudent to express their taste and political judgment."

The two types, the study showed, "speak essentially different languages and do not speak very much to each other."

The division of the liberals, the committee said, has been identified this year in a series of roll call votes. Included were measures dealing with the rights of dissenters, invasion of privacy, curbs against rebellious students and constitutional issues in the anticrime bill.

"In battles over the budget," the committee said, "the Humanists tried to develop and advance programs for self-help among the poor, the minorities, the unorganized, the establishment forces favored cutting these 'soft' programs and continuing the appropriations for public works and engineering programs, especially those connected with the military."

The Humanists, the committee said, includes both "a clique of about 15 ideological protesters on Vietnam" and about 40 "Operative Liberals" who are "experienced and interested in the real use of power."

The Democratic party, as seen through its House members, is depicted in the report as bankrupt. "The Southerners have lost their votes to George Wallace; the labor bosses go around with bags of money but can't deliver their membership; the organization blacks have no influence since it's the militants who stir the Negro ghettos. The Democratic party is without a great issue, without a hero and without a live constituency."

More Working Under GOP Leadership

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer's administration says GOP-controlled government has witnessed 635,100 more Pennsylvanians find jobs since the Republicans took power six years ago.

Shafer used the July employment figure of 4,765,000 to make his point.

"When Republicans took over from Democratic leaders in 1963," he said, "there were 4,130,200 people with jobs. That means that there are 635,100 more Pennsylvanians working under Republican leadership — or an additional 100,000 a year to our work force since we took office."

These remarks appear in a position paper entitled: "Second Campaign Republican Progress Report."

Shafer said that while employment was jumping to record highs the state's unemployment rates were dipping to all-time lows.

"In August," he said, "the rate was 3 per cent with 145,000 Pennsylvanians on unemployment rolls. 'When Republicans took office from Democratic leaders there were 410,000 workers without jobs — a 9 per cent unemployment rate.'"

Pennsylvania Happenings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Richard M. Nixon plans to carry his campaign for the presidency back into Pennsylvania on Oct. 1. The Associated Press learned Saturday.

The Republican nominee, reliable sources indicated, plans to visit at Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and Erie on the early October trip.

Nixon campaigned in the Philadelphia area last Friday and Saturday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson discloses his agency plans to construct a $7 million main post office building in Reading, Pa. Watson said Saturday the building will be provided with modern mechanized postal equipment valued at some $500,000. The new facility is expected to be ready for use in late 1972.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — U.S. Sen. Joseph P. Clark, D. Pa., seeking his third six-year term, says the Democratic Party is going to have to work very hard — and get at least a 250,000-vote majority in Philadelphia — if it is going to win Pennsylvania at the Nov. 5 election.

Clark told a meeting of women party workers Saturday that a victory is necessary not only for himself, over Republican challenger Richard S. Schweiker, but for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey over Republican Richard M. Nixon.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The driest and hottest summer in Philadelphia in years ended Sunday.

During the summer which began on June 21 there was a total of 4.31 inches of rain or 8.01 inches below normal, making it the driest since 1900. Temperatures averaged two degrees above normal, including 26 days with 90 or higher.

Students Clash With Riot Police

TOKYO (AP) — Radical students, armed with wooden staves and throwing rocks, clashed with riot police Sunday as the students tried to break into a U.S. Air Force base near here during an anti-U.S. demonstration.

About 1,200 leftist students tried to force their way into the Tachikawa base on the northern outskirts of Tokyo after a rally to protest U.S. military bases in Japan and transport of U.S. Army ammunition by Japan's National Railway, the police said. The students were pushed back by about 1,000 riot police guarding the base and the clashes ensued.
